U.S. Bombers Hit Red Supply Bases In Laos, Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — About 40 U.S. B52 bombers pounded a North Vietnamese supply buildup extending from inside Laos to the northern entrance of the A Shau Valley in heavy raids Sunday and today.

The eight-jet Stratofortresses dropped more than 1,000 tons of bombs on base camps, bunkers and storage areas in the north-west sector of South Vietnam and in the adjacent area of eastern Laos.

Informed sources said in Saigon last week that Hanoi had launched the biggest supply operation of the war down the Ho

Moon Dust Vial Stolen In Los Angeles

Container Heisted During Charity Affair Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A vial containing about a spoonful of moon dust is missing, the first loss in 50 displays of priceless lunar samples.

Officials disclosed Sunday that the vial, containing 2.3 grams of material from lunar rock No. 50 brought to earth by Apollo 11, disappeared the night before during a charity affair for scientific research that included a $100-a-plate dinner.

"I'm going to call it a theft," said Steven Lawrence, business manager of the Institute of Geophysics at the University of California at Los Angeles, who arranged the display. "But I hope it was a joke and we'll get it back."

Several persons from the institute were with the display, he said, but there was no guard "as such."

Police and the FBI said they were investigating.

In Houston, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it had not authorized the exhibit, and that about 50 samples had been displayed with authorization and without a loss.

NASA assigned the sample last November to Dr. George Weatherill of the institute for analysis to determine its age.

"Much of its value has been extracted," Weatherill said. "But we were going to try to work on it some more. It's possible we would have found something very important scientifically."

He estimated the sample's age at 3.7 billion years, the age of the earth.

Ohio Solons Study Bill On Fines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Legislature was due back in session tonight with the Senate scheduled for action on a bill which would make it unlawful for a person to be jailed because he couldn't pay court costs.

The bill also would set $10-a-day as the amount jailed persons would be credited with if locked up to work off any fine.

The Ohio Supreme Court recently ruled unconstitutional the practice of imposing jail sentence for failing to pay court costs, saying the $3-a-day credited toward fines was too low.

Although the court did not specify what amount should be credited to prisoners, the city of Cincinnati set it at $10-a-day.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Robert Shaw, R-16, Columbus, would make $10 the statutory fee as well as outlawing jail terms for court costs.

The House, after weekend recess, also returns tonight.

One bill up for consideration would authorize municipalities to use highway construction fund money for installation and upkeep of traffic lights on state highways.

Columbus Police Reject Pay Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police rejected a proposed $675 across - the-board annual pay raise Sunday shortly after firemen voted to accept the increase.

City officials said they would continue discussions later this week with police officials. The pay hikes would raise firemen's starting salary to $8,060 a year and the top salary to $9,724.

Cost Of Atomic Carriers Spirals

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy isn't sure how much its newest atomic-powered carriers will finally cost, but there are indications the ultimate price will exceed already historic high estimates.

Congress has appropriated more than $1 billion for the first two ships in the Nimitz class, making the two supercarriers the most expensive U.S. warships ever built.

The estimated $336 million cost for the Nimitz and $510 million for the Eisenhower, compare with the $474 million price tag on the nation's previously most expensive ship, the pioneer nuclear carrier the Enterprise.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says the estimated prices of the Nimitz and the Eisenhower could go higher.

After three years of preparations, the Navy is negotiating with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., Newport News, Va., on a "fixed price incentive fee type" contract covering the Nimitz and the Eisenhower.

However, Navy officials have advised Congress that even when the contract terms and pricing arrangements are settled, they still will not be able to accurately predict the final cost until actual construction is well advanced.

This is so, officials said, because there are so many uncertainties involved in building these complex warships that it is impossible to know in advance exactly how much effort will be required to build them.

Also, delays in delivering some of its nuclear components may defer delivery of the Nimitz by a year, to 1973, and put off delivery of the Eisenhower about a year to 1975.

Authorities said it is not yet known what cost increases, if any, will flow from delays in completion of the ship.

A third Nimitz-class carrier is in an even more iffy stage. The new defense budget disclosed for the first time the as yet unnamed carrier in the class could run up to $640 million. That price, too, could escalate.

Laird has asked $152 million for advance procurement of some nuclear and propulsion equipment. But he has promised Congress none of this money will be obligated until administration and congressional studies are completed on the future requirements of the carriers, particularly whether the nation needs the 15 new airplane-carrying ships the Navy has requested.

Claim Israeli Planes Killed 32 In Raid On Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt reported Israeli planes killed 32 soldiers and civilians in a raid on Egyptian military positions in the central and southern sectors of the Suez Canal Sunday.

It was the second time in two weeks that Egypt had charged Israeli attackers with causing heavy casualties. Egypt said on Feb. 13 that Israeli planes killed 70 civilians in an attack on a scrap metal plant 17 miles north of Cairo.

The announcement today by the Middle East News Agency did not say how many of the dead were troops and how many civilians. But it said the civilians were "working with the armed forces."

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv announced three raids across the canal and said some planes penetrated 15 miles into Egypt. The command said all planes returned safely. There was no estimate of the raids' effect.

In Israeli-occupied Gaza City, military officials said three Arabs were killed and seven wounded today when a hand grenade was thrown into the passport office. Officials said it was possible one of the dead men was the attacker.

It was the second grenade attack in Gaza in a week. Last week one Arab was killed and 39 were injured when a grenade was thrown.

Activity also was reported on the Israeli-Lebanese front, where an Israeli spokesman said saboteurs from Lebanon blew up a house in a frontier settlement but caused no casualties. It was the fifth civilian home attacked in two weeks by guerrillas from Lebanon, Israeli officials said.

Guerrillas from Lebanon also blew up an irrigation pipe at the Israeli frontier settlement of Zarit.

The Israeli command said two Arab saboteurs were killed by an army patrol in a fire fight near the Damiya Bridge across the Jordan River.

A spokesman said three Israeli soldiers were wounded in another fight with guerrillas on the occupied Golan Heights of Syria.

A Jordanian military spokesman said Jordanian and Israeli troops fought a half-hour machine-gun battle in the south-east Jordan Valley. The spokesman said the Israelis opened fire and the Jordanians returned the fire. No Jordanian casualties were reported.

A Palestine guerrilla spokesman said several units of Al Fatah commandos attacked with rockets and overran a number of Israeli army positions in Turkumania, Tellet el Najjar and Um el Wattadi, in the Jordan Valley. The spokesman said one guerrilla was killed and two wounded, while the Israelis suffered several casualties.

Panetta Blames White House Aides For Rights Slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recently fired administration civil rights official says four powerful White House aides are to blame for slackened government school desegregation efforts.

The charges were made as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, head of President Nixon's special cabinet-level task force on school desegregation, declared the panel would not "give support to any evasion of the law."

Leon E. Panetta, dumped by the White House as civil rights head for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, also said the vice president and two senators played major roles in his ouster.

The four White House aides identified by Panetta as principal architects of the administration's request last summer for a desegregation delay in 30 Mississippi school districts on Sen. John Stennis' threat to withdraw as floor leader of the President's hotly contested Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Stennis, a Mississippi Democrat, is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The President's special school desegregation panel was viewed by some government officials as a means to decrease HEW's role in Southern school desegregation.

Company Reports Record Earnings

TROY, Ohio (AP) —The Hobart Manufacturing Co. released a consolidated report to shareholders over the weekend reporting record highs in sales and profits for 1969.

Sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969, totaled $201,016,000, an increase of 16.7 per cent over the previous year. Net income was $13,102,000, a 12.1 per cent hike over the 1968 figures of $11,684,000.

The firm manufactures food machines, dishwashers and scales.

Carswell Bid Looks Good

Even Opponents See Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court seems well on the road to Senate confirmation, although opponents still hold out hope of blocking the appointment.

A poll of the Senate by the Associated Press shows 37 firm votes at this time for confirmation with eight more leaning in favor.

In opposition were 18 senators: three members sending toward a no-vote. The remaining 34 senators said they were uncommitted, declined comment or could not be reached.

The 2-1 margin reflected in the poll follows an earlier prediction by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., a major supporter of Carswell, a Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals court judge.

Even Edward M. Kennedy, a stated opponent of the nomination, said he was leaning in favor.

North Viets Move In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Two companies of North Vietnamese troops have been sighted between the Communist-held airstrip at Muong Soui and Sala Phoukhoun, the key junction on the highway between Vientiane and Luang Prabang, informed sources said today.

The sources believe the North Vietnamese may be preparing to attack the road junction to isolate Luang Prabang, the royal capital, from Vientiane, the administrative capital 140 miles to the south.

The North Vietnamese force was believed to number about 200 men.

An appeal by Premier Prince Souvanna Phou, to the British and Soviet governments was received in London today, and presumably the Soviet Embassy also forwarded it to Moscow. In the letter, Prince Souvanna protested the North Vietnamese offensive and asked the British and Soviet governments to reconvene the 14-nation 1962 Geneva conference on Laos.

Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the conference.

Castro Patrol Boat Escorts Ship To Island

MIAMI (AP) — Ship radio reports today indicated a Cuban patrol boat had escorted into Cuban waters an American treasure-hunting craft it had boarded on the high seas.

A spokesman in Washington for the firm that chartered the Jocelyn-C for treasure-hunting tests said at least five persons were aboard.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Miami refused to comment.

Marine broadcasts monitored in Miami said Cuban seamen boarded the 65-foot red, white and blue Jocelyn-C Sunday and removed two Cuban crewmen before beginning escort of the American boat into Cuban territorial waters just off La Isabela on the island's northern coast.

As the Jocelyn-C and the patrol boat traveled the 140 miles from the point of the reported boarding to La Isabela, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Seadust watched off shore. The cutter remained outside Cuba's three-mile limit.

Only four of the persons reportedly aboard the Jocelyn-C were identified immediately.

Early morning Havana radio broadcasts monitored in Miami made no mention of the incident.

The Steadfast was dispatched to the Atlantic between Cuba and the Bahamas early Sunday afternoon when the Jocelyn-C, commanded by Capt. Sten Carlson of East Orleans, Mass., reported by radio that the Cuban craft was approaching it. The vessel was 15 miles offshore, the radio report said.

Moments before the Jocelyn-C's transmitter went silent, the captain reported: "They're lowering their guns on us."

The Steadfast, a 210-foot heavy-duty cutter armed with a three-inch cannon and several machine guns, reportedly was operating under instructions not to attempt an interception of the two vessels.

The Jocelyn-C, under charter to a Washington firm known as Sub Mar, sailed from Fort Lauderdale Friday after having repairs made to its electronic treasure-hunting equipment. The equipment was to be tested during the cruise.

Viet Court Won't Free Assemblyman

SAIGON (AP) — A military court rejected today a defense motion to free National Assemblyman Tran Ngoc Chau until the South Vietnamese Supreme Court rules on the legality of the resolution that stripped him of parliamentary immunity.

Then after a sharp exchange of words between the judge and Chau the court ordered the trial into recess until Tuesday.

Chau is accused of having contacts with an admitted Communist agent—his brother, Tran Ngoc Hien, who is now in prison.

The adjournment came after a day of legal wrangling over whether it is possible to appeal to the South Vietnamese Supreme Court rulings by the military court.

The trial had begun 12 hours earlier under tight security on a navy base along the Saigon River.

The court's ruling on the defense motion to free Chau opened the way for testimony in the assemblyman's second trial in five days on the same charge.

Chau, who contends President Nguyen Van Thieu is persecuting him in an attempt to intimidate political opponents, was stripped of his immunity by an assembly resolution bearing 102 signatures. A handful of deputies said later they had withdrawn their signatures, and at least one said his name was forged.

U.S. Newsman Gets Look At North Viet Air Defense

Editor's Note—The writer of this dispatch is an assistant general manager of The Associated Press. He and his wife have been making an authorized visit in North Vietnam.

By DANIEL DeLUCE
Associated Press Writer

HANOI (AP) — The air defense of North Vietnam by supersonic fighter planes, surface-to-air missiles and heavy anti-aircraft artillery has been dramatically simulated in a public exhibition by North Vietnam's People's Army.

More than a million persons are said to have attended the military exhibition, which opened Dec. 22. It is housed in a series of large pavilions on spacious grounds on the outskirts of Hanoi.

Although temporarily closed this week to the public, the exhibition was opened for two hours for this correspondent and his wife by special arrangement of the Foreign Ministry's press department.

The walls of the pavilions are hung with gold star and red flags of North Vietnam and red flags with gold hammer and sickle of the Vietnam Workers — or Communist — party. A granite statue in an outdoor garden memorializes the unity of the civilian population and the People's Army in "fighting against the United States' air war of destruction," said Ho Chi Minh, the party's leader in charge of the exhibition.

It is 40 feet high and was built in a month by student engineers.

Three large and elaborate relief maps depict two air battles over Hanoi on May 19, 1967, and Oct. 26, 1967, and an American raid on Hon Gai, a coastal mining locality, about 30 miles northeast of Haiphong and 60 miles from Red China, on Aug. 5, 1965.

The most sophisticated defense was shown for the Hanoi battle in October 1967. Tiny models of jet interceptors attached to wires took off and flew over the Hanoi area. Models of U.S. attackers appeared on other wires.

Clusters of heavy anti-aircraft artillery simulated fire with blinding lights and background sounds of explosions on the public address system. Then winged, needle-shaped surface-to-air missiles entered the fray, rising from the map on wires to strike American aircraft which then caught fire and fell.

A technician in a military uniform manipulated the models and sound effects at a console. A narrator, also in a military uniform, described the battle through a loudspeaker.

According to the narrator, 12 U.S. planes were shot down before the action ended.

Credit for warning the population before the first wave struck was given to the nation's defensive radar net. Credit for downing the U.S. planes was divided among jet interceptors, missiles and heavy anti-aircraft batteries.

A girl in a blue and white Self Defense Corps uniform narrated the Hon Gai raid and said three U.S. planes were shot down and one pilot named "Alvarez" was captured.

Also displayed is a jacket reportedly belonging to an American pilot identified on a placard as Norman Gardis. It lists him as a U.S. Air Force Academy professor with the rank of colo-

U.S. Bombers Hit Red Supply Bases In Laos, Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — About 40 U.S. B52 bombers pounded a North Vietnamese supply buildup extending from inside Laos to the northern entrance of the A Shau Valley in heavy raids Sunday and today.

The eight-jet Stratofortresses dropped more than 1,000 tons of bombs on base camps, bunkers and storage areas in the northwest sector of South Vietnam and in the adjacent area of eastern Laos.

Informed sources said in Saigon last week that Hanoi had launched the biggest supply operation of the war down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and was moving hundreds of tons of war materials through the 25-mile-long A Shau Valley for distribution to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops fighting in South Vietnam.

Another 20 B52s dropped 600 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations and base camps in the western Mekong Delta eight miles from the Cambodian border. The strikes were concentrated in the Seven Mountains region, which is used as a staging and storage area by the enemy.

Two more American helicopters were reported lost. One was shot down in the Central Highlands a mile from the Cambodian border and 112 miles northeast of Saigon, but the crewmen escaped unhurt. A second helicopter carrying South Korean troops developed engine trouble and crashed 15 miles northwest of Cam Ranh Bay, killing the American pilot and injuring three Koreans.

The losses raised to 6,456 the number of American helicopters and fixed-wing planes reported lost in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

Eight miles south of Da Nang, two explosive charges believed planted by Viet Cong saboteurs ripped through a 40-foot bridge across the Song Thanh River, temporarily closing National Highway One, military spokesmen said.

It was the second time in three months that the bridge had been blown up. A 30-man platoon of South Vietnamese militiamen assigned to defend the bridge was being held for investigation, presumably to determine if they were negligent in failing to spot the saboteurs, who were believed to be frogmen.

The U.S. Command reported a dozen enemy rocket and mortar attacks between 8 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. today, including a 10-round rocket barrage on the U.S. Army's Long Binh headquarters, 12 miles northeast of Saigon. No casualties were reported at Long Binh but six Americans were wounded and five Vietnamese were killed elsewhere.

Panetta Blames White House Aides For Rights Slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recently fired administration civil rights official says four powerful White House aides are to blame for slackened government school desegregation efforts.

The charges were made as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, head of President Nixon's special cabinet-level task force on school desegregation, declared the panel would not "give support to any evasion of the law."

Leon E. Panetta, dumped by the White House as civil rights head for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, also said the vice president and two senators played major roles in his ouster.

The four White House aides identified by Panetta as principal architects of the administration desegregation policy were: H. R. "Bob" Haldeman, the man who controls access to the President; Bryce N. Harlow, counselor and congressional relations expert; John D. Ehrlichman, domestic policy chief; and Harry C. Dent, No. 1 political strategist at the White House.

Panetta said Agnew, a former Maryland governor, and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., became irritated after the department "indicated to Maryland its higher education (civil rights) program was not good enough."

Dole was mad because "we were moving on Wichita, Kan., which was a Northern system where we were able to establish discrimination and frankly where city leaders said there is discrimination," he said.

Panetta also blamed the administration's request last summer for a desegregation delay in 30 Mississippi school districts on Sen. John Stennis' threat to withdraw as floor leader of the President's hotly contested Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Stennis, a Mississippi Democrat, is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The President's special school desegregation panel was viewed by some government officials as a means to decrease HEW's role in Southern school desegregation.

Company Reports Record Earnings

TROY, Ohio (AP) — The Hobart Manufacturing Co. released a consolidated report to shareholders over the weekend reporting record highs in sales and profits for 1969.

Sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1969, totaled $201,016,000, an increase of 16.7 per cent over the previous year. Net income was $13,102,000, a 12.1 per cent hike over the 1968 figures of $11,684,000.

The firm manufactures food machines, dishwashers and scales.

Carswell Bid Looks Good

Even Opponents See Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court seems well on the road to Senate confirmation, although opponents still hold out hope of blocking the appointment.

A poll of the Senate by the Associated Press shows 37 firm votes at this time for confirmation with eight more leaning in favor.

In opposition were 18 senators: three members tending toward a no-vote. The remaining 34 senators said they were uncommitted, declined comment or could not be reached.

The 2-1 margin reflected in the poll follows an earlier prediction by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., a major supporter of Carswell, a Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals court judge.

North Viets Move In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Two companies of North Vietnamese troops have been sighted between the Communist-held airstrip at Muong Soui and Sala Phoukhoun, the key junction on the highway between Vientiane and Luang Prabang, informed sources said today.

The sources believe the North Vietnamese may be preparing to attack the road junction to isolate Luang Prabang, the royal capital, from Vientiane, the administrative capital 140 miles to the South.

The North Vietnamese force was believed to number about 200 men.

An appeal by Premier Prince Souvanna Phou, to the British and Soviet governments was received in London today, and presumably the Soviet Embassy also forwarded it to Moscow. In the letter, Prince Souvanna protested the North Vietnamese offensive and asked the British and Soviet governments to reconvene the 14-nation 1962 Geneva conference on Laos.

Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the conference.

Castro Patrol Boat Escorts Ship To Island

MIAMI (AP) — Ship radio reports today indicated a Cuban patrol boat had escorted into Cuban waters an American treasure-hunting craft it had boarded on the high seas.

A spokesman in Washington for the firm that chartered the Jocelyn-C for treasure-hunting tests said at least five persons were aboard.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Miami refused to comment.

Marine broadcasts monitored in Miami said Cuban seamen boarded the 65-foot red, white and blue Jocelyn-C Sunday and removed two Cuban crewmen before beginning escort of the American boat into Cuban territorial waters just off La Isabela on the island's northern coast.

As the Jocelyn-C and the patrol boat traveled the 140 miles from the point of the reported boarding to La Isabela, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Seadfast watched off shore. The cutter remained outside Cuba's three-mile limit.

Only four of the persons reportedly aboard the Jocelyn-C were identified immediately.

Early morning Havana radio broadcasts monitored in Miami made no mention of the incident.

The Steadfast was dispatched to the Atlantic between Cuba and the Bahamas early Sunday afternoon when the Jocelyn-C, commanded by Capt. Sten Carlson of East Orleans, Mass., reported by radio that the Cuban craft was approaching it. The vessel was 15 miles offshore, the radio report said.

Moments before the Jocelyn-C's transmitter went silent, the captain reported: "They're lowering their guns on us."

The Steadfast, a 210-foot heavy-duty cutter armed with a three-inch cannon and several machine guns, reportedly was operating under instructions not to attempt an interception of the two vessels.

The Jocelyn-C, under charter to a Washington firm known as Sub Mar, sailed from Fort Lauderdale Friday after having repairs made to its electronic treasure-hunting equipment. The equipment was to be tested during the cruise.

Viet Court Won't Free Assemblyman

SAIGON (AP) — A military court rejected today a defense motion to free National Assemblyman Tran Ngoc Chau until the South Vietnamese Supreme Court rules on the legality of the resolution that stripped him of parliamentary immunity.

Then after a sharp exchange of words between the judge and Chau the court ordered the trial into recess until Tuesday.

Chau is accused of having contacts with an admitted Communist agent—his brother, Tran Ngoc Hien, who is now in prison.

The adjournment came after a day of legal wrangling over whether it is possible to appeal to the South Vietnamese Supreme Court rulings by the military court.

The trial had begun 12 hours earlier under tight security on a navy base along the Saigon River.

The court's ruling on the defense motion to free Chau opened the way for testimony in the assemblyman's second trial in five days on the same charge.

Chau, who contends President Nguyen Van Thieu is persecuting him in an attempt to intimidate political opponents, was stripped of his immunity by an assembly resolution bearing 102 signatures. A handful of deputies said later they had withdrawn their signatures, and at least one said his name was forged.

U.S. Newsman Gets Look At North Viet Air Defense

Editor's Note—The writer of this dispatch is an assistant general manager of The Associated Press. He and his wife have been making an authorized visit in North Vietnam.

By DANIEL DeLUCE

Associated Press Writer
HANOI (AP) — The air defense of North Vietnam by supersonic fighter planes, surface-to-air missiles and heavy anti-aircraft artillery has been dramatically simulated in a public exhibition by North Vietnam's People's Army.

More than a million persons are said to have attended the military exhibition, which opened Dec. 22. It is housed in a series of large pavilions on spacious grounds on the outskirts of Hanoi.

Although temporarily closed this week to the public, the exhibition was opened for two hours for this correspondent and his wife by special arrangement of the Foreign Ministry's press department.

The walls of the pavilions are hung with gold star and red flags of North Vietnam and red flags with gold hammer and sickle of the Vietnam Workers' — or Communist — party.

A granite statue in an outdoor garden memorializes the unity of the civilian population and the People's Army in "fighting against the United States' air war of destruction," said Ho Chi, the party cadre in charge of the exhibition.

It is 40 feet high and was built in a month by student engineers.

Three large and elaborate relief maps depict two air battles over Hanoi on May 19, 1967, and Oct. 26, 1967, and an American raid on Hon Gai, a coastal mining locality, about 30 miles northeast of Haiphong and 60 miles from Red China, on Aug. 5, 1965.

The most sophisticated defense was shown for the Hanoi battle in October 1967. Tiny models of jet interceptors attached to wires took off and flew over the Hanoi area. Models of U.S. attackers appeared on other wires.

Clusters of heavy anti-aircraft artillery simulated fire with blinding lights and background sounds of explosions on the public address system. Then winged, needle-shaped surface-to-air missiles entered the fray, rising from the map on wires to strike American aircraft which then caught fire and fell.

A technician in a military uniform manipulated the models and sound effects at a console. A narrator, also in a military uniform, described the battle through a loudspeaker.

According to the narrator, 12 U.S. planes were shot down before the action ended.

Credit for warning the population before the first wave struck was given to the nation's defensive radar net. Credit for downing the U.S. planes was divided among jet interceptors, missiles and heavy anti-aircraft batteries.

A girl in a blue and white Self Defense Corps uniform narrated the Hon Gai raid and said three U.S. planes were shot down and one pilot named "Alvarez" was captured.

Also displayed is a jacket reportedly belonging to an American pilot identified on a placard as Norman Gardis. It lists him as a U.S. Air Force Academy professor with the rank of colonel and said he parachuted from his aircraft on May 12, 1967, and was captured by militiamen.

The simulated Hanoi battle of October 1967 included the capture of Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain 3rd, son of Adm. John S. McCain, head of the U.S. forces in the Pacific, including Vietnam. The son's plane was hit by a surface-to-air missile in the simulation and a tiny parachute emerged from the model of the plane and coasted down the wire into a glassy model lake.

Another pilot captured in that battle was identified by a name strip on an aviation jacket as "Kabler." Some personal effects included a Bible so small (Continued on Page 12)

Ohio Weekend Highway Toll Reaches 1; Count 'Low'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nearly half of Ohio's weekend traffic deaths occurred Sunday. At least 11 persons died on the state's highways, roads and streets between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, a relatively low toll.

The worst accident occurred Friday night when three persons were killed in a two-car crash at U.S. 20 and Ohio 23 southeast of Toledo.

It was the only fatal accident of the night and claimed the lives of Jackie Pritt and Deborah Dorn of Columbus and Norman Shank of Woodville.

Deaths Saturday:
EATON—Delbert S. Cole, 62, Eaton, when his truck struck a tree in Eaton, Preble County.

WOOSTER — Merrill Parrish, 32, Shreve, in a two-car crash at the intersection of Ohio 226 and a Wayne County road.

SANDUSKY — Wilmer R. Blackman, 41, Davenport, Iowa, when struck by a car in Sandusky.

Carlson's wife, Jocelyn, for whom the boat was named, said she spoke to her husband Thursday. She reported he told her a shakedown cruise had been completed and that he would call her again in about 10 days.

Mrs. Carlson lives with the couple's two children in East Orleans, Mass.

The Jocelyn-C left Cape Cod harbor Jan. 1. Carlson, 37, said at the time he was starting a three-month search for sunken Spanish gold in the Caribbean.

With Carlson when he sailed last January was William Crockett, 27, a photographer and fisherman. Crockett, a bachelor, is a native of Richmond, Va., and has been living in Chatham, Mass.

Two other members of the crew were identified as Pat Fitzsimmons and Joe Campbell. Their hometowns were not known.

A British vessel identified as the Aethusa, described in Lloyd's Registry of Ships as a 318-foot, 3,152-ton training ship registered in London, was nearby when the Jocelyn-C was boarded. It remained with the boat and the Cuban vessel until the Steadfast arrived, radio reports said.

The State Department said it had asked the Swiss government, which looks after U.S. interests in Cuba, to obtain information about the seizure. Washington has no diplomatic relations with Havana.

School Foundation Payments Made

Circleville, Teays Valley, Logan Elm and Westfall Schools received a total of $88,966.36 from the state school foundation subsidy payments for February.

In addition, the county board of education received $5,408.69 for its operation.

Circleville received the largest payment, $44,065.82. Teays Valley received $19,953.21, Westfall $17,050.94 and Logan Elm, $7,866.82.

Auto Homicide Charges Filed On Vickroy

Two charges of first degree vehicular homicide were filed against Robert W. Vickroy, Columbus, in municipal court today, stemming from the double fatality accident in which two Washington C. H. women were killed.

Vickroy faced charges of failure to yield the right of way and OMVI pending against him since the Jan. 31 accident at the junction of Route 22 and 56.

The 27-year-old Columbus man was discharged Saturday from the Cincinnati Veterans Hospital where he has been under treatment. He surrendered to the Sheriff's department early Monday and immediately was scheduled before Judge Sterling Lamb.

Bond was set at $5,000 on each homicide count, awaiting the April term of the grand jury. A $500 fine and six month jail sentence was imposed with a three year license suspension for the intoxication charge. Vickroy also received a $50 fine for the right of way violation. He is presently being held in the Pickaway County jail.

Theresa Sue Underwood and Sharon Marie Lambert 23, both of Washington C. H. were killed in the two car collision, when they were returning home from work at the local General Electric plant.

Docket Heavy With Traffic Violators

Monday's session of the Municipal court was heavy as weekend motorists appeared to pay their fines for various traffic violations.

George R. Chaffin, 23, of Shady Acres Trailer Court, was fined $10 for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone.

William R. Blankenship, 18, Elsea Trailer Court and Edgar Nungester Jr., 20, of 376 Walnut St., each paid $15 fines for traffic offenses.

Larry Hamilton, 18, of 64 Bolens Ave., appeared on charges. He was fined $15 and costs for passing another vehicle over double yellow lines and $50 plus costs for speeding 60 in a 35 mile zone.

Friday afternoon activities in the court showed four county residents paid $24 fines for speeding.

Christian F. Meenach, 29, Circleville paid a $10 fine; James G. Rae, 34, of 570 Ridgewood Ave. and James Philip Lemaster, 32, Ashville, each forfeited $24 and Eddie Combs Jr., 18, Ashville forfeited 25.

Other fines and forfeitures collected by the court totaled $269.

Man Apprehended In Jacket Theft

A $200 fine was levied against Bruce Pert, Route 3, when he appeared in municipal court Friday on charges of attempted shoplifting.

Pert was apprehended as he was trying to leave the store with two summer jackets concealed under his own jacket. Total value of the coats was $13.54.

Charges were filed against James Keaton, Cottage Hill, for issuing a check without an account. He was fined $50 and costs.

Three Youths Cited For Drag Racing

Three persons were arrested by Pickaway County Deputy Bill Dountz for drag racing on Route 56 between Route 104 and Route 22.

Richard Lee Kitchen, 20, of Route 2 and Mark Clark, 16, of Williamsport, drivers of the cars and Dennis Woods, 13, 225 Watt St., a passenger in Clark's auto, were all cited in the incident.

Post Office Has Job Openings

Circleville Postmaster Charles Walters announced opportunities for postal service careers and employment as clerks and carriers in the Columbus, Ohio Post Office. Applicants will be required to pass a general knowledge examination conducted by the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Applications will be accepted from individuals, regardless of their residence who indicate a willingness to accept employment at the Columbus Post Office.

Starting salary is $3.06 per hour with an additional ten percentum for night work, with automatic increases up to $8.42 per annum, for both male and female employees. There are also opportunities for advancement to higher level technical and initial level supervisory positions.

Information and applications can be obtained from the Post Office Civil Service Examiner, Room 237, Federal Building, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43215, on Mondays through Fridays, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Carswell Bid

tion and the Senate's No. 2 Democratic leader, indicated last week he expected only 25 votes against Carswell.

Another critic, New York Sen. Charles E. Goodell, one of only three Republicans publicly on record against Carswell, says he sees a minimum of 30 no votes.

Goodell, however, says he hopes for more allies before the vote is called, perhaps late this month. He said there would be extended debate on the nomination and perhaps a filibuster.

The opposition to Carswell, the second Southerner Nixon has tried to appoint to the seat vacated under fire last year by Abe Fortas, centers mostly on his civil rights views, with some attacks aimed at what critics term a lack of judicial distinction.

Some senators and civil rights leaders charge Carswell with insensitivity, at the very least, to blacks, citing among other things a white supremacy forever speech he gave during a 1948 political campaign.

Fire In Derby Destroys Barn
A fire in Derby, Darby Township, could have developed into major catastrophe if it was not for the good work of the Mt. Sterling and Harrisburg Fire Departments.

A barn, on the property of Avonelle Foster, was completely destroyed in the blaze which broke out at 7:48 p.m. Saturday. The Landmark Elevator suffered minor damage to the roof and an adjacent garage was scorched in the inferno. Quick work by the firefighters prevented further damage.

The cause of the fire and the loss have not been determined as yet.

Supreme Court Curbs Prosecution Of Draft Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court set 23 today as the cut-off age for prosecuting young men who fail to register for the draft on their 18th birthday.

A 5-3 decision, given by Justice Hugo L. Black, said failure to register is a serious offense but is not a continuing one. Therefore, he said, the five-year statute of limitations bars prosecution past the violator's 23rd birthday.

The ruling reversed the conviction of Robert I. Toussie, a Brooklyn businessman whom the government moved to prosecute a month before his 26th birthday.

Except in rare instances, the draft law prescribes that young men register for the draft at the age of 18 or within five days afterward. Toussie was born June 23, 1941 and was required to register between June 23 and June 28, 1959. He never registered.

The federal statute of limitations prohibits prosecuting a violator of federal laws more than five years after the commission of a crime.

The court's decision said that even though men are liable for the draft until 26 the registration requirement normally exists only at the age of 18 and hence a violator can be prosecuted only until he is 23.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented with Justices Byron R. White and John M. Harlan.

They took the view that failure to register is a "continuing offense" until the age of 26 and that a violator, therefore, may be prosecuted until he is 31.

"If he still had a duty to serve, then it is completely illogical to conclude that he did not also still have a duty to register," White's dissenting opinion said.

"The whole purpose of the registration section is to provide a manpower pool from which inductees can be selected; registration is but the necessary first step in the congressional scheme for processing, classifying and selecting individuals for training."

In other actions today, the court:

—Unanimously turned down a bid by Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia that he be allowed to file as a candidate to succeed himself.

—Agreed to hear the appeal of a woman whose complaint of job discrimination became an issue in the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

—Agreed to review federal laws that authorized the blocking or detention of mail to dealers in "obscene" materials.

—Ruled that the National Labor Relations Board lacks the power to require that a company yield to a union demand that it check off workers union dues.

GOOD POSTURE

A great contribution to the public health is being made by the chiropractic profession of America by their educational campaign to improve the posture of citizens and thus increase the efficiency of all our workers. Poor posture is expensive, and poor posture habits are responsible not only for many days of lost time, but for poor response to job needs and eventually for a shortened life of top efficiency.

The problem of poor posture and the low efficiency of workers which it brings on can best be approached by —

A long, careful, and well-planned program to teach Americans how to walk and stand and sit in ways which will promote health and efficiency. The chiropractic profession has such an educational program underway, and it is having its effect.

However, making a nation posture-conscious takes time. Meanwhile, many individual postural faults can be helped by direct treatment, or the bad effects can be modified or eliminated.

In the program individual doctors of chiropractic play a decisive and important role.

They may be contacted on how to carry out the program of postural and spinal education. They are eager to explain to their patients how to walk, stand, sit and sleep for the best effect on health.

And they are specialists in relieving the bad results of poor posture by correcting the misalignments of the spine. Every doctor of chiropractic knows that the most minor displacements in the spinal column can bring on sharp pains, often far removed from the spine itself, which disappear under chiropractic treatment.

Surveys among school children indicate that more than 76% have spinal defects or postural distortions in some degree.

Ohio Weekend Highway Toll Reaches 11; Count 'Low'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nearly half of Ohio's weekend traffic deaths occurred Sunday. At least 11 persons died on the state's highways, roads and streets between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, a relatively low toll.

The worst accident occurred Friday night when three persons were killed in a two-car crash at U.S. 20 and Ohio 23 southeast of Toledo.

It was the only fatal accident of the night and claimed the lives of Jackie Pitt and Deborah Dorn of Columbus and Norman Shank of Woodville.

Deaths Saturday:
EATON—Delbert S. Cole, 62, Eaton, when his truck struck a tree in Eaton, Preble County.
WOOSTER—Merrill Parrish, 32, Shreve, in a two-car crash at the intersection of Ohio 228 and a Wayne County road.
SANDUSKY—Wilmer R. Blackman, 41, Davenport, Iowa, when struck by a car in Sandusky.

Carlson's wife, Jocelyn, for whom the boat was named, said she spoke to her husband Thursday. She reported he told her a shakedown cruise had been completed and that he would call her again in about 10 days.

Mrs. Carlson lives with the couple's two children in East Orleans, Mass.

The Jocelyn-C left Cape Cod harbor Jan. 1, Carlson, 37, said at the time he was starting a three-month search for sunken Spanish gold in the Caribbean.

With Carlson when he sailed last January was William Crockett, 27, a photographer and fisherman. Crockett, a bachelor, is a native of Richmond, Va., and has been living in Chatham, Mass.

Two other members of the crew were identified as Pat Fitzsimmons and Joe Campbell. Their hometowns were not known.

A British vessel identified as the Aethusa, described in Lloyd's Registry of Ships as a 318-ton, 3,152-ton training ship registered in London, was nearby when the Jocelyn-C was boarded. It remained with the boat and the Cuban vessel until the Steadfast arrived, radio reports said.

The State Department said it had asked the Swiss government, which looks after U.S. interests in Cuba, to obtain information about the seizure. Washington has no diplomatic relations with Havana.

School Foundation Payments Made

Circleville, Teays Valley, Logan Elm and Westfall Schools received a total of $88,968.36 from the state school foundation subsidy payments for February.

In addition, the county board of education received $5,408.69 for its operation.

Circleville received the largest payment, $44,095.82. Teays Valley received $19,953.21, Westfall $17,050.94 and Logan Elm, $7,866.82.

Auto Homicide Charges Filed On Vickroy

Two charges of first degree vehicular homicide were filed against Robert W. Vickroy, Columbus, in municipal court today, stemming from the double fatality accident in which two Washington C. H. women were killed.

Vickroy faced charges of failure to yield the right of way and OMVI pending against him since the Jan. 31 accident at the junction of Route 22 and 56.

The 27-year-old Columbus man was discharged Saturday from the Cincinnati Veterans Hospital where he has been under treatment. He surrendered to the Sheriff's department early Monday and immediately was scheduled before Judge Sterling Lamb.

Bond was set at $5,000 on each homicide count, awaiting the April term of the grand jury. A $500 fine and six month jail sentence was imposed with a three year license suspension for the intoxication charge.

Vickroy also received a $50 fine for the right of way violation. He is presently being held in the Pickaway County jail.

Theresa Sue Underwood and Sharon Marie Lambert 23, both of Washington C. H. were killed in the two car collision, when they were returning home from work at the local General Electric plant.

Docket Heavy With Traffic Violators

Monday's session of the Municipal court was heavy as weekend motorists appeared to pay their fines for various traffic violations.

George R. Chaffin, 23, of Shady Acres Trailer Court, was fined $10 for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone.

William R. Blankenship, 18, Elsea Trailer Court and Edgar Nungester Jr., 20, of 376 Walnut St., each paid $15 fines for traffic offenses.

Larry Hamilton, 18, of 64 Bolens Ave., appeared on charges. He was fined $15 and costs for passing another vehicle over double yellow lines and $50 plus costs for speeding 60 in a 35 mile zone.

Friday afternoon activities in the court showed four county residents paid $24 fines for speeding.

Christian F. Meenach, 29, Circleville paid a $10 fine; James G. Rae, 34, of 570 Ridgewood Ave. and James Philip Lemaster, 32, Ashville, each forfeited $24 and Eddie Combs Jr., 18, Ashville forfeited 29.

Other fines and forfeitures collected by the court totaled $269.

A $200 fine was levied against Bruce Pert, Route 3, when he appeared in municipal court Friday on charges of attempted shoplifting.

Pert was apprehended as he was trying to leave the store with two summer jackets concealed under his own jacket. Total value of the coats was $13.54.

Charges were filed against James Keaton, Cottage Hill, for issuing a check without an account. He was fined $50 and costs.

Three Youths Cited For Drug Racing

Three persons were arrested by Pickaway County Deputy Bill Dountz for drug racing on Route 56 between Route 104 and Route 22.

Richard Lee Kitchen, 20, of Route 2 and Mark Clark, 16, of Williamsport, drivers of the cars and Dennis Woods, 13, 225 Watt St., a passenger in Clark's auto, were all cited in the incident.

Post Office Has Job Openings

Circleville Postmaster Charles Walters announced opportunities for postal service careers and employment as clerks and carriers in the Columbus, Ohio Post Office. Applicants will be required to pass a general knowledge examination conducted by the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Applications will be accepted from individuals, regardless of their residence who indicate a willingness to accept employment at the Columbus Post Office.

Starting salary is $3.06 per hour with an additional ten percentum for night work, with automatic increases up to $8.442 per annum, for both male and female employees. There are also opportunities for advancement to higher level technical and initial level supervisory positions.

Information and applications can be obtained from the Post Office Civil Service Examiner, Room 237, Federal Building, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43215, on Mondays through Fridays, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Carswell Bid

tion and the Senate's No. 2 Democratic leader, indicated last week he expected only 25 votes against Carswell.

Another critic, New York Sen. Charles E. Goodell, one of only three Republicans publicly on record against Carswell, says he sees a minimum of 30 no votes.

Goodell, however, says he hopes for more allies before the vote is called, perhaps late this month. He said there would be extended debate on the nomination and perhaps a filibuster.

The opposition to Carswell, the second Southerner Nixon has tried to appoint to the seat vacated under fire last year by Abe Fortas, centers mostly on his civil rights views, with some attacks aimed at what critics term a lack of judicial distinction.

Some senators and civil rights leaders charge Carswell with insensitivity, at the very least, to blacks, citing among other things a white supremacy forever speech he gave during a 1948 political campaign.

Fire In Derby Destroys Barn

A fire in Derby, Darby Township, could have developed into major catastrophe if it was not for the good work of the Mt. Sterling and Harrisburg Fire Departments.

A barn, on the property of Avonelle Foster, was completely destroyed in the blaze which broke out at 7:48 p.m. Saturday.

The Landmark Elevator suffered minor damage to the roof and an adjacent garage was scorched in the inferno. Quick work by the firefighters prevented further damage.

The cause of the fire and the loss have not been determined as yet.

Supreme Court Curbs Prosecution Of Draft Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court set 23 today as the cut-off age for prosecuting young men who fail to register for the draft on their 18th birthday.

A 5-3 decision, given by Justice Hugo L. Black, said failure to register is a serious offense but is not a continuing one. Therefore, he said, the five-year statute of limitations bars prosecution past the violator's 23rd birthday.

The ruling reversed the conviction of Robert I. Toussie, a Brooklyn businessman whom the government moved to prosecute a month before his 26th birthday.

Except in rare instances, the draft law prescribes that young men register for the draft at the age of 18 or within five days afterward. Toussie was born June 23, 1941 and was required to register between June 23 and June 28, 1959. He never registered.

The federal statute of limitations prohibits prosecuting a violator of federal laws more than five years after the commission of a crime.

Recording Continue Upward Swing

Activity in the office of County Recorder Hazel M. Yeatts in February continued to increase over the previous month and showed an increase volume over February, 1969.

Local figures are in direct contrast to neighboring Franklin County where a Feb. 15 publication stated vital economic signs continued on their downward plunge through January, with no indication of a turn around.

Each month's activities in the local recorder's office for 1970 has shown an increase over the previous month and a decided increase over 1969 activities for the given month.

Nearly one million dollars were involved in the 61 real estate mortgages recorded in February in Pickaway County.

The amount was $971,900.78. Involved also in the 230 recordings processed in February were 90 deeds; 79 miscellaneous recordings; cancellation of 49 real estate mortgages involving money in the amount of $394,758.15; and the filing and processing of 170 financing statements, according to the recorder's report.

GOOD POSTURE

A great contribution to the public health is being made by the chiropractic profession of America by their educational campaign to improve the posture of citizens and thus increase the efficiency of all our workers.

Poor posture is expensive, and poor posture habits are responsible not only for many days of lost time, but for poor response to job needs and eventually for a shortened life of top efficiency.

The problem of poor posture and the low efficiency of workers which it brings on can best be approached by —

A long, careful, and well-planned program to teach Americans how to walk and stand and sit in ways which will promote health and efficiency. The chiropractic profession has such an educational program underway, and it is having its effect.

However, making a nation posture-conscious takes time. Meanwhile, many individual postural faults can be helped by direct treatment, or the bad effects can be modified or eliminated.

In the program individual doctors of chiropractic play a decisive and important role.

They may be contacted on how to carry out the program of postural and spinal education. They are eager to explain to their patients how to walk, stand, sit and sleep for the best effect on health.

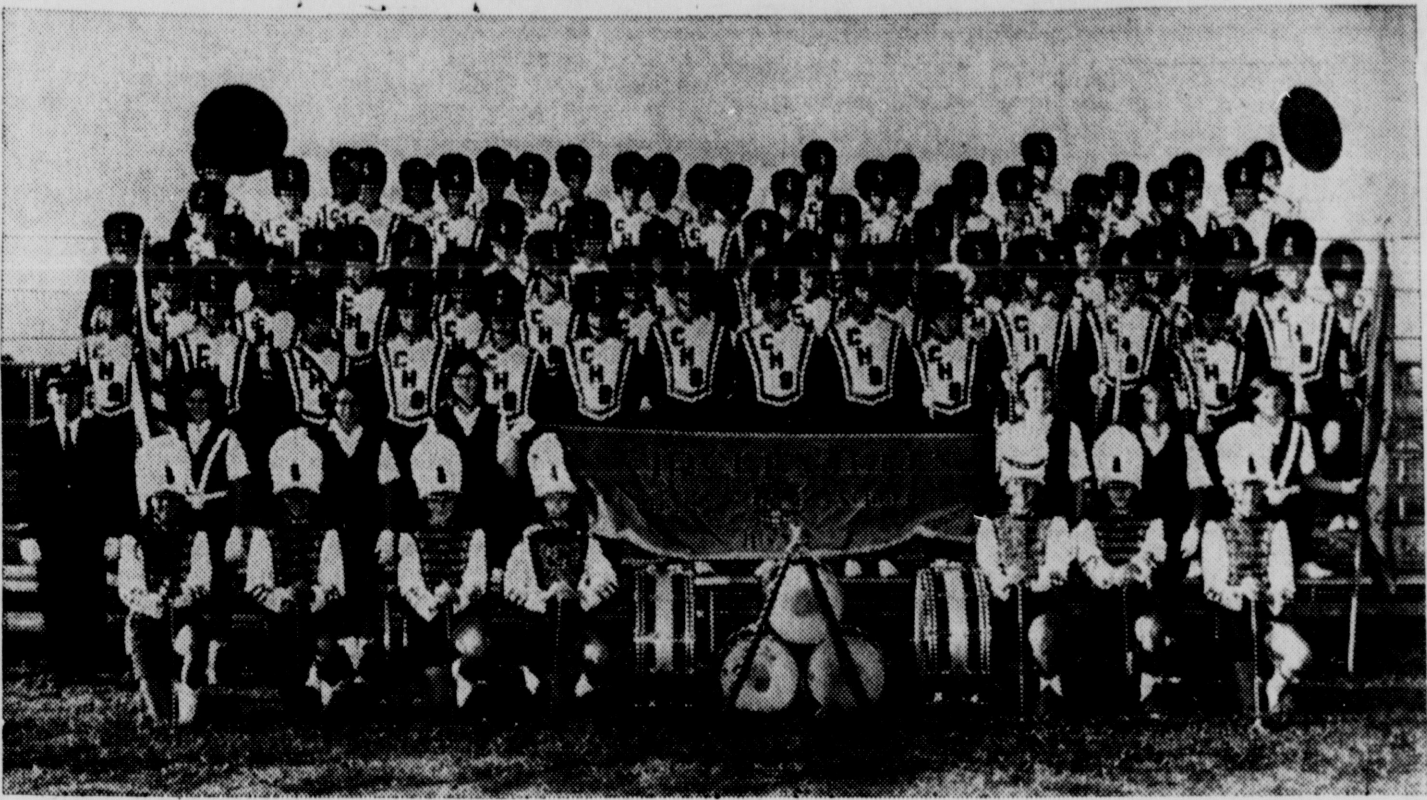

And they are specialists in relieving the bad results of poor posture by correcting the misalignments of the spine. Every doctor of chiropractic knows that the most minor displacements in the spinal column can bring on sharp pains, often far removed from the spine itself, which disappear under chiropractic treatment.

Surveys among school children indicate that more than 75% have spinal defects or postural distortions in some degree.

Dual Columbus Slaying Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "We can't put the scene together," said Deputy Coroner William Adron as authorities probed circumstances today behind the grisly slayings of an Ohio State University graduate student and his girlfriend.

A major mystery, Adron said, is whether William Sproat, 23, Havertown, Pa., was murdered simultaneously with Mary Petry, 20, Portsmouth. Or did Miss Petry stumble onto Sproat's slaying while it was in progress and became the murderer's second victim, Adron asked.

The bodies of the young couple were found Saturday in Sproat's blood-spattered apartment in the OSU area.

Detective James Carr said a cab driver, the last person known to have seen Miss Petry alive, had been "completely exonerated."

Carr said she had ridden from Cincinnati to Columbus with friends Friday and then took a cab to Sproat's apartment.

A butcher knife and a bowling ball found in the apartment are believed to have been the murder weapons.

Police were expected to release the findings of a preliminary autopsy today.

Miss Petry, described as probably the best student in the modern languages department of Mt. St. Joseph College in Cincinnati, had been stabbed, beaten savagely on the head and body and possibly raped.

Sproat's wrists were bound to his ankles behind his back with coat hangers wound so tightly police believe pliers may have been used to tighten them. He had been stabbed about 20 times in the back, police said.

Carr said nothing was taken from the apartment.

The bodies were found by Sproat's roommate, also a graduate student from Havertown. He told police he spent Friday night with friends.

Police said there were no signs of anybody having forced his way into the apartment and said the victims apparently put up little resistance. Neighbors reported hearing nothing unusual during the night.

Both Sproat and Miss Petry were French majors and both had studied in France at different times on scholarships from Xavier University in Cincinnati, where Sproat attended school.

Offshore Oil Well Blaze Threatens Large Spillage

By ED TUNSTALL
Associated Press Writer

VENICE, La. (AP) — It sounds like a thousand jets thundering as the giant finger of flame rises from the big offshore oil platform, weaving a blanket of gray smoke over the Gulf of Mexico.

The platform houses a dozen oil wells, owned by Chevron Oil Co. It broke into flames three weeks ago and today the platform, 30 miles off the southeastern Louisiana marshlands, is a tangled web of steel.

Fire fighting specialist Red Adair's crew is working to try to snuff out the fire and cap the wells. Before flames engulfed it on Feb. 10, the 12-well cluster was producing 900 barrels of oil daily.

There will be another problem when the fire is extinguished—oil will spill into the Gulf and may contaminate rich oyster beds.

Company officials said there is no way to estimate how much oil will spill from the wells because they are not sure how many in the group surfacing at the platform are producing.

"We're not going to make mistakes made before, like the Torrey Canyon," said Tom

Riggs, assistant general manager of Chevron, referring to the big tanker which hit a reef and blackened the Cornish coast of England with its oil cargo in March 1967.

He said a likely way to handle the spill would be to station barges around the platform to scoop up the oil as it pours forth.

Just when Adair's crew will try to snuff out the fire is not known.

"It might be three days or three weeks," Riggs said. "We just don't know. It's all up to Adair's men. They'll move when they feel they're ready."

Chevron has erected a platform adjacent to the burning wells. From it, a half dozen big hoses play on the fire.

Riggs said the company's loss would run well into the millions.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Cloudy skies, generally mild temperatures and spotty rain summed up the weather picture during the night.

Temperatures held in the 40s over all but the extreme northern tier of counties. Readings dropped into the 30s in those counties but only fell below freezing in areas adjacent to Lake Erie.

Rain or drizzle was observed in nearly all sections at one time or other since sundown Sunday. During the evening measureable amounts fell in Toledo, Columbus and Cincinnati. The .04 inch at Cincinnati was the lowest amount.

Heavy fog prevailed along much of the Ohio River early today.

Clouds, rain and mild temperatures will dominate the forecast through middle of the week.

BAND TO PERFORM — Circleville High School Band along with the High School Choir will present their Mid-Winter Concert 7:30 p.m. Friday in the high school auditorium. There will be an admission charge. Tickets may be purchased from any choir or band member or at the door. The Friday concert is preparation for the band and choir's participation in a district contest March 14.

Dual Columbus Slaying Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "We can't put the scene together," said Deputy Coroner William Adron as authorities probed circumstances today behind the grisly slayings of an Ohio State University graduate student and his girlfriend.

A major mystery, Adron said, is whether William Sproat, 23, Havertown, Pa., was murdered simultaneously with Mary Petry, 20, Portsmouth, Or. Or did Miss Petry stumble onto Sproat's slaying while it was in progress and became the murderer's second victim, Adron asked.

The bodies of the young couple were found Saturday in Sproat's blood-spattered apartment in the OSU area.

Detective James Carr said a cab driver, the last person known to have seen Miss Petry alive, had been "completely exonerated."

Carr said she had ridden from Cincinnati to Columbus with friends Friday and then took a cab to Sproat's apartment.

A butcher knife and a bowling ball found in the apartment

are believed to have been the murder weapons.

Police were expected to release the findings of a preliminary autopsy today.

Miss Petry, described as probably the best student in the modern languages department of Mt. St. Joseph College in Cincinnati, had been stabbed, beaten savagely on the head and body and possibly raped.

Sproat's wrists were bound to his ankles behind his back with coat hangers wound so tightly police believe pliers may have been used to tighten them. He had been stabbed about 20 times in the back, police said.

Carr said nothing was taken from the apartment.

The bodies were found by Sproat's roommate, also a graduate student from Havertown. He told police he spent Friday night with friends.

Police said there were no signs of anybody having forced his way into the apartment and said the victims apparently put up little resistance. Neighbors reported hearing nothing unusual during the night.

Both Sproat and Miss Petry were French majors and both had studied in France at different times on scholarships from Xavier University in Cincinnati, where Sproat attended school.

The two met last September through mutual friends at Xavier and began dating.

Miss Petry was on the dean's list regularly at Mt. St. Joseph. Stanley Thom, acting chairman of the modern languages department, said she probably was the best student. He called her "vivacious but not aggressive."

Offshore Oil Well Blaze Threatens Large Spillage

By ED TUNSTALL
Associated Press Writer

VENICE, La. (AP) — It sounds like a thousand jets thundering as the giant finger of flame rises from the big offshore oil platform, weaving a blanket of gray smoke over the Gulf of Mexico.

The platform houses a dozen oil wells, owned by Chevron Oil Co. It broke into flames three weeks ago and today the platform, 30 miles off the southeastern Louisiana marshlands, is a tangled web of steel.

Fire fighting specialist Red Adair's crew is working to try to snuff out the fire and cap the wells. Before flames engulfed it on Feb. 10, the 12-well cluster was producing 900 barrels of oil daily.

There will be another problem when the fire is extinguished—oil will spill into the Gulf and may contaminate rich oyster beds.

Company officials said there is no way to estimate how much oil will spew from the wells because they are not sure how many in the group surfacing at the platform are producing.

"We're not going to make mistakes made before, like the Torrey Canyon," said Tom

Riggs, assistant general manager of Chevron, referring to the big tanker which hit a reef and blackened the Cornish coast of England with its oil cargo in March 1967.

He said a likely way to handle the spill would be to station barges around the platform to scoop up the oil as it pours forth.

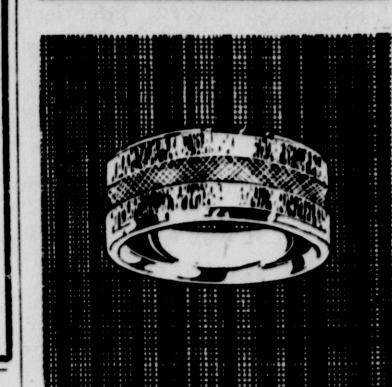

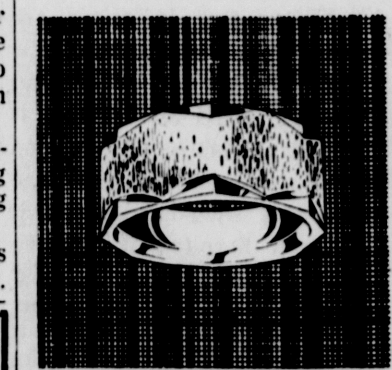

Just when Adair's crew will try to snuff out the fire is not known.

"It might be three days or three weeks," Riggs said. "We just don't know. It's all up to Adair's men. They'll move when they feel they're ready."

Chevron has erected a platform adjacent to the burning wells. From it, a half dozen big hoses play on the fire.

Riggs said the company's loss would run well into the millions.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Cloudy skies, generally mild temperatures and spotty rain summed up the weather picture during the night.

Temperatures held in the 40s over all but the extreme northern tier of counties. Readings dropped into the 30s in those counties but only fell below freezing in areas adjacent to Lake Erie.

Rain or drizzle was observed in nearly all sections at one time or other since sundown Sunday. During the evening measurable amounts fell in Toledo, Columbus and Cincinnati. The .04 inch at Cincinnati was the lowest amount.

Heavy fog prevailed along much of the Ohio River early today.

Clouds, rain and mild temperatures will dominate the forecast through middle of the week.

New Climate Threat

A British meteorologist warns that Soviet plans to divert three giant Siberian rivers from the Arctic, where they now empty, to the desert region between the Caspian and Aral seas could have serious consequences to the world's climate.

The Soviets are known to have considered the mammoth project, which would involve construction of thousands of miles of canals, for at least 15 years. Probably it is the long-range effects of the diversion which have stalled the project, but there are reports some construction work on the canals now is underway.

Hubert Lamb, the British climatologist who is raising the alarm, estimates that half the fresh water now flowing into the Arctic region would be diverted if the waters from the Pechora, Ob and Yenisei rivers were routed to the arid region in the south. This could cause a melting of the ice cap of the North, since the surface waters would have a higher brine content.

To the Soviets, however, the immediate advantages are compelling. Providing a continuous supply of water to the Caspian and Aral seas, both of which have been drying up, and the desert region in between could mean reclaiming 85 million acres of arid land and draining 150 million acres of swamp.

Valuable though these reclamations would be, they pale by comparison to the damage which could result from any significant melting of the polar ice cap. The most extreme results could include vast new desert regions appearing throughout the world, including parts of North America.

Scientists everywhere should take note of this, particularly if it is true the Russians already have started on their dangerous folly.

Nearer The Top

A worldwide survey of inflation shows the rise in consumer prices in the United States between June 1968 and June 1969 of 5.5 percent was fourth highest, topped only by Japan, France and the Netherlands, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

In the decade between 1958 and 1969 the U.S. registered the smallest price rise of any industrial nation. There is nothing to indicate that it will soon revert to that position.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If Norman Denny had held a match under a thermometer or fired a gun when the runners were braced against their starting blocks, he couldn't have produced a more predictable result.

Denny, president of that "little institution out of Philadelphia," the Lincoln National Bank, announced Wednesday a reduction in the prime interest rate and in so doing ignited the stock market on a course toward space.

For months traders had blamed tight money and high interest costs for cutting into corporate profits and, as a result, the price of stocks. They desperately awaited news of an interest rate reduction.

Denny, a spirited 5-foot-11 activist with "the youngest bank board in Philadelphia," gave traders the news. He announced that beginning March 1 he would lend money to business not at 8 1/2 per cent, but at 8.

The news reached Wall Street at about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday with the Dow Jones Industrial average moping along with less than a one point gain. In the next half hour that gain multiplied 13 times.

"We call it the Lincoln Market around here," said Denny the next day as he received telegrams, phone calls and new accounts. Clearly he was elated that the 1,267th largest bank could crack a shot heard round the country.

"The public is a coiled spring," he said. "A little insti-

TODAY
In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 2, the 61st day of 1970. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1836, Texas proclaimed independence from Mexico.

On this date:

In 1776, American Marines fought their first battle, capturing a fort in the Bahamas.

In 1853, the Washington Territory was organized in the West.

In 1861, Dakota was organized as a U.S. Territory.

In 1899, Congress established Mt. Rainier National Park in Washington.

In 1945, during World War II, U.S. troops reached the Rhine River at a point opposite Dusseldorf, Germany.

In 1949, an American B50 Superfort landed at Fort Worth, Tex., after completing the first nonstop flight around the world.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower was visiting Uruguay.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson sent a message to Congress proposing the creation of a Cabinet department of housing and urban development.

One year ago — President Nixon met with Pope Paul at the Vatican.

The situation was just waiting for action: it was a setup for any publicity minded lender. But Denny said Lincoln's sole concern was the economy.

Lincoln National feared the economy was swiftly heading for trouble, he said, and that something had to be done to give encouragement to borrowers, to spur activity and avert trouble by May.

"My concern was that business prospects should have a chance for survival," he said by telephone. "If unemployment keeps going up at a rate of 300,000 a month we'll have lost 1.2 million jobs by May."

He continued: "In May we might desperately want to turn the economy around, but we need to start now. If you want to head off trouble you don't wait until May."

The action, he said, was decided upon at a senior staff meeting that lasted from 10:30 to 11:30 Wednesday morning.

"There was unanimous consensus that business was heading down. Again it was unanimous that the economy was in for rough times in 90 days. And there was a consensus also on reducing the prime rate."

Implementing the decision—which Denny described as "crystallizing thoughts"—took until 1:30, and then Denny said he made one telephone call to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

"We did it—lowered the rate—for our customers," he said.

The news spread through financial communities by the next hour. Soon the big New York banks and others were claiming that any reduction in lending rates was premature. They declined to fall into line behind Lincoln.

This didn't bother Denny, he said. His customers would benefit, and he was certain that within 60 to 90 days the others would lower their rates.

"... You've been stacked up that long?!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

DR. BILL CAHAN recalls a day when he was an intern, and had vaccinated a kid from a very tough neighborhood. When he reached out to put a bandage over the vaccination spot, the kid demurred: he wanted it plastered on the other arm. "But, son," said Dr. Cahan, "the bandage is for the sore spot so the boys won't hit you there." "Put it on the other arm, Doctor," the kid insisted. "You don't know those guys!"

When TV Producer Mark Goodson first had a telephone installed in his automobile, he enjoyed using it for the edification of friends. He was giving a lift. One of his friends decided to surprise him with a call late in the night, but after contacting the mobile operator, had the devil's own time ascertaining Goodson's automobile number. In exasperation, he demanded, "Are you or are you not the mobile operator?" After a further delay, the sheepish answer came, "I'm afraid, sir, that somehow you've been connected with Mobile, Alabama."

"To give you an idea of how attractive our female poodle is," boasted a commuter, "just yesterday morning I counted twenty-two suitors in the back yard." "They must have come from all over town," observed his seatmate. "You said it," nodded the commuter. "There were TWO with Oregon licenses!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

An anti-allergy drug was prescribed for me for a single attack of sneezing and running nose. It was found that I was allergic to a new soap and once that was discarded I never had another attack. It was at that time that I learned that I was able to get an excellent night's sleep by taking the anti-allergic drug. Is there any harm to having continued to do this for years? I have had no side effects, but I do get an excellent night's sleep with it.

Miss M.G., New York, N.Y. Dear Miss G.: Antihistamine drugs are known to cause drowsiness in many people. It is strange that some of the many drugs of this kind may produce sleepiness and drowsiness while others will not do so. It is for this reason that doctors will very often shift from one to the other hoping that the anti-allergy effect will be present without drowsiness.

An additional thought about this may be of safety value. Driving an automobile or working at heavy machinery should not be done unless the person taking the antihistamine knows that it will not reduce his reflexes and cause dangerous sleepiness.

The small amount you are taking is certainly doing no injustice to your health. This quantity is quickly lost through the urine within 6 hours and therefore has no cumulative effect. To doubly insure safety, discuss this with your own physician. I am certain that he will give you similar reassurance.

How does one know if a child should be given a tetanus injection after a street injury? This happens so often to our children who are constantly playing in the yard.

Mrs. K. W., Texas Dear Mrs. W.: There is no single rule of safety that can be applied. The need for a tetanus injection depends on the severity of the wound, the instrument that caused it, and the nature of the soil that got into the wound. Generally there is far less danger of tetanus than we think, but every serious wound should be individually evaluated by your doctor.

How can I protect my newborn infant if I have a cold or runny nose?

Mrs. D. N., Michigan Dear Mrs. N.: The ideal way, of course, would be to remove yourself from the child's presence. This, I know, is difficult in many instances. A mask worn over the nose and mouth is a moderate amount of protection for the child.

Jumbo Jets Are Here

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The new world of the jumbo jets has been with us for more than a month insofar as international flights are concerned, with Pan American, a big money loser at the end of 1969, getting first off the mark. Now, with the coming of March, the era of the domestic jumbo jet is here. It will change the American skies in beneficial ways, but the big question is what it will do to the highways — which more and more shrink to the comparative size of medieval alleys — in the urban world below that feeds the airports.

Of course, there are the claims and counter-claims for the honor of domestic flight pioneering. TWA, being both a foreign and a domestic carrier, got the technical drop on the main domestic airlines by shifting a huge Boeing 747 it had ostensibly bought for transoceanic use to the Los Angeles-Kennedy run. By the time this column appears, the first commercial transcontinental 747 flight, carrying some 340 passengers, will presumably be history. Boeing, the provider of the jumbos, had "slotted" its deliveries of the 747 to serve the overseas carriers first, which was in accordance both with priority of orders and considerations of U.S. international prestige. This gave TWA an inadvertent domestic advantage.

American Airlines, which is getting into the Australian run at a future date but doesn't need jumbos at least just yet for that, hoped to beat TWA in the domestic Los Angeles-Kennedy service by leasing a 747 from Pan American. (The company won't get its own 747s, built to its own special passenger area configurations, until June, but expects to have ten by the end of the year.) By offering an early announcement of its inaugural flight for today, March 2, American let TWA counter-punch with a date for the end of February. The competition is good-natured and the important thing is that the jumbo gets advertised.

It's going to be lovely aloft. The tube-shape effect of the plane interior is lost, for inside the 747 the passengers — seventy in the first class, as set forth by American, and some three hundred in coach service — will be able to stand up at full height all the way to the windows. American has "taken the kitchen out of the living room" by placing its food galley on a deck below the passenger seatings. Elevator service carries the food "upstairs," where it is taken by service carts to the passengers along two separate parallel aisles (the seatings are 3-4-2 in the coach section, 2-2-2 in one of the first-class sections). The fourteen cabin employees will be headed by a "management man," a sort of captain's stand-in, not a straw-boss, who will be on hand to make suggestions and receive complaints — and, maybe, be quick to forestall potential hijackers.

The real social interest in the jumbo, however, comes in its relations to the world below. The good thing about the jumbo is that it will enable an airline to substitute one new flight for two old flights. Assuming that bigger runways are ready, this will mean less pressure on the flight controllers who set the approach schedules. There should be less circling around before landing.

With one flight taking the place of two, the stress of loading and unloading the passengers shifts to the baggage claims and gate area departments. Though there are more people per plane, emplaning and deplaning will be easier because of wider doors both at the boarding gates and on the plane itself. Seat assignments will be by computer and color-coded for first and second class. The baggage tags will be alphabetized, and reclamation will take seven minutes.

Once ready for the street, however, a crowd of 360 passengers will find it the same old world, only worse. Where are the taxis and jumbo busses needed to funnel such a crowd quickly into town? How can they be helicoptered away? The jumbo is an "environmental" plus from one standpoint: its engines are practically "smoke-free," which eliminates pollution from the jet exhausts. It is only our towns and our road systems that must now be redesigned, to get the passengers into and out of the air.

Legislature Report

By Representative

MYRL H. SHOEMAKER

As has happened almost annually for the past several years in Ohio, student tuition rates at state supported universities were increased again last week. Approval by the Board of Regents for six universities to increase tuition was granted last Friday.

The six universities — Miami, Bowling Green, Kent State, Ohio University, Toledo University and Akron University are now all at the maximum rate allowed by state law — $170 per quarter.

Last year Democrats in the Ohio Legislature pushed to prevent the increase of tuition fees, and for a while it appeared that Governor Rhodes would go along with the proposal. He proposed a freeze in tuition, but later relented and allowed further increases. Costs of education now have increased almost 75 per cent in a ten year period.

In a related area, two state legislators who last year sponsored legislation requiring university professors to work a 40 hour week, criticized a report by the universities on staffing, salaries and work load of their personnel.

The two members stated that the report said that such things as hours in classes, number of students and credit hours, are obsolete in measuring faculty work load. They claimed the report widened the credibility gap between the university administrators and the taxpayers are becoming nervous about the state universities.

The bill which will increase the interest rates for home loans in Ohio backed by FHA or VA was approved by the House Financial Institutions Committee this week, and is expected to be voted on by the entire House next week.

The present usury rate in Ohio is 8 per cent. This bill will increase that rate to whatever the federal government rates are for FHA or VA loans. It will not change the usury rate for conventional loans.

The House also approved this week a proposal to permit police officers to stop a person in a public place when the officer infers, for observation of that person, that he has recently committed, is committing, or is about to commit a crime.

New Climate Threat

A British meteorologist warns that Soviet plans to divert three giant Siberian rivers from the Arctic, where they now empty, to the desert region between the Caspian and Aral seas could have serious consequences to the world's climate.

The Soviets are known to have considered the mammoth project, which would involve construction of thousands of miles of canals, for at least 15 years. Probably it is the long-range effects of the diversion which have stalled the project, but there are reports some construction work on the canals now is underway.

Hubert Lamb, the British climatologist who is raising the alarm, estimates that half the fresh water now flowing into the Arctic region would be diverted if the waters from the Pechora, Ob and Yenisei rivers were routed to the arid region in the south. This could cause a melting of the ice cap of the North, since the surface waters would have a higher brine content.

To the Soviets, however, the immediate advantages are compelling. Providing a continuous supply of water to the Caspian and Aral seas, both of which have been drying up, and the desert region in between could mean reclaiming 85 million acres of arid land and draining 150 million acres of swamp.

Valuable though these reclamations would be, they pale by comparison to the damage which could result from any significant melting of the polar ice cap. The most extreme results could include vast new desert regions appearing throughout the world, including parts of North America.

Scientists everywhere should take note of this, particularly if it is true the Russians already have started on their dangerous folly.

Nearer The Top

A worldwide survey of inflation shows the rise in consumer prices in the United States between June 1968 and June 1969 of 5.5 percent was fourth highest, topped only by Japan, France and the Netherlands, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

In the decade between 1958 and 1969 the U.S. registered the smallest price rise of any industrial nation. There is nothing to indicate that it will soon revert to that position.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If Norman Denny had held a match under a thermometer or fired a gun when the runners were bunched against their starting blocks, he couldn't have produced a more predictable result.

Denny, president of that "little institution out of Philadelphia," the Lincoln National Bank, announced Wednesday a reduction in the prime interest rate and in so doing ignited the stock market on a course toward space.

For months traders had blamed tight money and high interest costs for cutting into corporate profits and, as a result, the price of stocks. They desperately awaited news of an interest rate reduction.

Denny, a spirited 5-foot-1 activist with "the youngest bank board in Philadelphia," gave traders the news. He announced that beginning March 1 he would lend money to business not at 8 1/2 percent, but at 8.

The news reached Wall Street at about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday with the Dow Jones Industrial average moping along with less than a one point gain. In the next half hour that gain multiplied 13 times.

"We call it the Lincoln Market around here," said Denny the next day as he received telegrams, phone calls and new accounts. Clearly he was elated that the 1,267th largest bank could crack a shot heard round the country.

"The public is a coiled spring," he said. "A little institution out of Philadelphia shot the market up the way it never went before. The public is a nervous wreck."

What Denny and his directors did was little more than many small banks could have done.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

DR. BILL CAHAN recalls a day when he was an intern, and had vaccinated a kid from a very tough neighborhood. When he reached out to put a bandage over the vaccination spot, the kid demurred: he wanted it plastered on the other arm. "But, son," said Dr. Cahan, "the bandage is for the sore spot so the boys won't hit you there." "Put it on the other arm, Doctor," the kid insisted. "You don't know those guys!"

When TV Producer Mark Goodson first had a telephone installed in his automobile, he enjoyed using it for the edification of friends he was giving a lift. One of his friends decided to surprise him with a call late in the night, but after contacting the mobile operator, had the devil's own time ascertaining Goodson's automobile number. In exasperation, he demanded, "Are you or are you not the mobile operator?" After a further delay, the sheepish answer came, "I'm afraid, sir, that somehow you've been connected with Mobile, Alabama."

"To give you an idea of how attractive our female poodle is," boasted a commuter, "just yesterday morning I counted twenty-two suitors in the back yard." "They must have come from all over town," observed his seatmate. "You said it," nodded the commuter. "There were TWO with Oregon licenses!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

An anti-allergy drug was prescribed for me for a single attack of sneezing and running nose. It was found that I was allergic to a new soap and once that was discarded I never had another attack. It was at that time that I learned that I was able to get an excellent night's sleep by taking the anti-allergic drug. Is there any harm in having continued to do this for years? I have had no side effects, but I do get an excellent night's sleep with it.

Miss M.G., New York, N.Y.
Dear Miss G.: Antihistamine drugs are known to cause drowsiness in many people. It is strange that some of the many drugs of this kind may produce sleepiness and drowsiness while others will not do so. It is for this reason that doctors will very often shift from one to the other hoping that the anti-allergy effect will be present without drowsiness.

An additional thought about this may be of safety value. Driving an automobile or working at heavy machinery should not be done unless the person taking the antihistamine knows that it will not reduce his reflexes and cause dangerous sleepiness.

The small amount you are taking is certainly doing no injustice to your health. This quantity is quickly lost through the urine within 6 hours and therefore has no cumulative effect. To doubly insure safety, discuss this with your own physician. I am certain that he will give you similar reassurance.

How does one know if a child should be given a tetanus injection after a street injury? This happens so often to our children who are constantly playing in the yard.

Mrs. K. W., Texas
Dear Mrs. W.: There is no single rule of safety that can be applied. The need for a tetanus injection depends on the severity of the wound, the instrument that caused it, and the nature of the soil that got into the wound. Generally there is far less danger of tetanus than we think, but every serious wound should be individually evaluated by your doctor.

How can I protect my newborn infant if I have a cold or runny nose?

Mrs. D. N., Michigan
Dear Mrs. N.: The ideal way, of course, would be to remove yourself from the child's presence. This, I know, is difficult in many instances. A mask worn over the nose and mouth is a moderate amount of protection for the child.

During the War of 1812 Sam served under Andy Jackson, another great fighter and a pretty good statesman, himself.

Nobody had to remind Sam Houston to "Remember the Alamo" because on April 21, 1836, Houston at the head of a badly outnumbered Texian army whaled the tar out of Mexican Gen. Santa Ana's forces and then captured the scoundrel who staged the shameful Alamo massacre.

Jumbo Jets Are Here

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The new world of the jumbo jets has been with us for more than a month insofar as international flights are concerned, with Pan American, a big money loser at the end of 1968, getting first off the mark. Now, with the coming of March, the era of the domestic jumbo jet is here. It will change the American skies in beneficial ways, but the big question is what it will do to the highways — which more and more shrink to the comparative size of medieval alleys — in the urban world below that feeds the airports.

Of course, there are the claims and counter-claims for the honor of domestic flight pioneering. TWA, being both a foreign and a domestic carrier, got the technical drop on the main domestic airlines by shifting a huge Boeing 747 it had ostensibly bought for transoceanic use to the Los Angeles-Kennedy run. By the time this column appears, the first commercial transcontinental 747 flight, carrying some 340 passengers, will presumably be history. Boeing, the provider of the jumbos, had "slotted" its deliveries of the 747 to serve the overseas carriers first, which was in accordance both with priority of orders and considerations of U.S. international prestige. This gave TWA an inadvertent domestic advantage.

American Airlines, which is getting into the Australian run at a future date but doesn't need jumbos at least yet for that, hoped to beat TWA in the domestic Los Angeles-Kennedy service by leasing a 747 from Pan American. (The company won't get its own 747s, built to its own special passenger area configurations, until June, but expects to have ten by the end of the year.) By offering an early announcement of its inaugural flight for today, March 2, American let TWA counter-punch with a date for the end of February. The competition is good-natured and the important thing is that the jumbo gets advertised.

It's going to be lovely aloft. The tube-shape effect of the plane interior is lost, for inside the 747 the passengers — seventy in the first class, as set forth by American, and some three hundred in coach service — will be able to stand up at full height all the way to the windows. American has "taken the kitchen out of the living room" by placing its food galleries on a deck below the passenger seats. Elevator service carries the food "upstairs," where it is taken by service carts to the passengers along two separate parallel aisles (the seatings are 3-4-2 in the coach section, 2-2-2 in one of the first-class sections). The fourteen cabin employees will be headed by a "management man," a sort of captain's stand-in, not a straw-boss, who will be on hand to make suggestions and receive complaints — and, maybe, be quick to forestall potential hijackers.

The real social interest in the jumbo, however, comes in its relations to the world below. The good thing about the jumbo is that it will enable an airline to substitute one new flight for two old flights. Assuming that bigger runways are ready, this will mean less pressure on the fight controllers who set the approach schedules. There should be less circling around before landing.

With one flight taking the place of two, the stress of loading and unloading the passengers shifts to the baggage claims and gate area departments. Though there are more people per plane, emplaning and deplaning will be easier because of wider doors both at the boarding gates and on the plane itself. Seat assignments will be by computer and color-coded for first and second class. The baggage tags will be alphabetized, and reclamation will take seven minutes.

Once ready for the street, however, a crowd of 360 passengers will find it the same old world, only worse. Where are the taxis and jumbo busses needed to funnel such a crowd quickly into town? How can they be helicoptered away? The jumbo is an "environmental" plus from one standpoint; its engines are practically "smoke-free," which eliminates pollution from the jet exhausts. It is only our towns and our road systems that must now be redesigned, to get the passengers into and out of the air.

Legislature Report

By Representative MYRL H. SHOEMAKER

As has happened almost annually for the past several years in Ohio, student tuition rates at state supported universities were increased again last week. Approval by the Board of Regents for six universities to increase tuition was granted last Friday.

The six universities — Miami, Bowling Green, Kent State, Ohio University, Toledo University and Akron University are now all at the maximum rate allowed by state law — $170 per quarter.

Last year Democrats in the Ohio Legislature pushed to prevent the increase of tuition fees, and for a while it appeared that Governor Rhodes would go along with the proposal. He proposed a freeze in tuition, but later relented and allowed further increases. Costs of education now have increased almost 75 per cent in a ten year period.

In a related area, two state legislators who last year sponsored legislation requiring university professors to work a 40 hour week, criticized a report by the universities on staffing, salaries and work load of their personnel.

The two members stated that the report said that such things as hours in classes, number of students and credit hours, are obsolete in measuring faculty work load. They claimed the report widened the credibility gap between the university administrators and the legislature and the taxpayers are becoming nervous about the state universities.

The present usury rate in Ohio is 8 per cent. This bill will increase that rate to whatever the federal government rates are for FHA or VA loans. It will not change the usury rate for conventional loans.

The House also approved this week a proposal to permit police officers to stop a person in a public place when the officer infers, for observation of that person, that he has recently committed, is committing, or is about to commit a crime.

Readers Question 'People Downstairs'

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "THE PEOPLE UPSTAIRS" who complained about the embarrassing sounds of love-making from the people downstairs struck me as being pretty ridiculous. Even in the flimsiest of constructed apartment buildings, I can't imagine anyone being able to hear such noises without straining their ears.

It reminded me of a story I heard years ago: A little old lady called the landlord of her apartment building to come up to hear her complaint.

"Why, it's positively disgraceful the way that man across the courtyard parades around in front of his window without a stitch of clothing on!" she said.

The landlord looked at her with disbelief and replied, "You can't possibly see into his window, madame. It's much too high." "Well, just you climb up here on top of this bureau, and you'll see plenty!" she said.

JOHN IN INKSTER, MICH.
DEAR ABBY: "THE PEOPLE UPSTAIRS" don't know how lucky they are. We have neighbors who make noise, too. But it's far from the love-making kind. This couple has a knock down drag out fight nearly every Saturday night. We should be so lucky as to have lovers for neighbors.

Charge Girl In Slaying At Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A Wittenberg University coed was charged Sunday with the necktie murder of an elderly woman.

The two apparently did not know each other and there was no apparent motive, police said.

Cynthia Ann Moore, 20, of Springfield was charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Nellis S. Hall, 73.

Mrs. Hall's body was found Saturday in the East Side high rise apartment in which she lived. It was discovered by her sister, who lives in another apartment in the same complex.

Police said Mrs. Hall had been strangled with a necktie. One end was knotted around her neck, the other tied to a table leg.

Miss Moore's stepfather, Harold E. Smith, called police Sunday morning after talking with his stepdaughter, officers said.

I promise you, that will be the end of any more such "noises." And if the people downstairs are good sports, present them with the tapes, which they can play back in about 35 years. They can be titled, "When You And I Were Young, Maggie," or, "Those Were The Days" or, "Thanks For The Memories."

Ancient Belief Hid A Treasure

MANIPUR, India (AP)—Nobody had dared enter the ruins in a corner of Santi Daleepur village near here for years because of a widespread belief that they were haunted. A journalist accidentally wandered in and discovered an ancient Buddhist temple dating back to 300 B.C.

SNIPER VICTIM — The lead guitarist for a hard-rock, long-haired band called The Buck Rogers Movement, Harlan Cornelius, Glenville, Minn., is in a hospital in Atlanta, Ga., after a bullet fired by a sniper cost him his left eye. He was shot on an expressway while the group was en route to a musical engagement.

Crossword Puzzles For Togetherness

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A sure-fire way of cementing marriages is doing crossword puzzle contests with your spouse.

So says Mrs. Shirley Sternad who recently won first prize, $12,850 in the American Holiday Association national crossword puzzle contest. Her husband Nicholas, helped her with the puzzle.

"Instead of going out nights we stayed home and worked on the puzzle," Mrs. Sternad said. "Couples would do their marriages much good by doing a joint effort. They wouldn't have to argue about where to go at night," said Mrs. Sternad.

Order Of Eastern Star Uses Washington Theme

Initiatory work was exemplified by officers of Circleville Chapter 90, Order of the Eastern Star, during a recent meeting in the Masonic Temple. Worthy matron, Pauline Cook, presided over the business session and extended a welcome with a patriotic reading. A miniature cherry tree and hutch set in front of the lectern carried out the patriotic theme commemorating the birthday of George Washington. Guests presented and officially greeted by the worthy matron were Harriet and Leonard Wise, worthy matron and patron of Waverly Chapter. Past matrons and patrons attending from the local chapter were Nancy Hamilton, junior past matron; Marie Bennett, Bonnie Rector, Mary E. Radcliffe, Gladys Shepler, Margaret Shane, Garnet Reichelderfer, Elaine Bowman, Ralph Cloud, Dwight Rector, Kenneth Shepler and junior past patron, Clarence Radcliffe. Receiving the degrees of the order was Mrs. Leah Ott. She was accompanied during the ritualistic ceremony by her sister-in-law, Nancy Ott acting as protom candidate. Past matron Garnet Reichelderfer was appointed as the new members' "big sister." Associate matron, Beverly Currence, reminded members that a stock sale dinner will be served on Wednesday, March 25. A dinner will also be served on March 5, for members of the Scottish Rite. Anyone able to assist at either of these dinners is asked to contact Mrs. Currence or Mrs. Cook. The worthy matron also announced that the annual inspection of officers for Circleville Chapter will be held on May 26. A poem "Old Glory," by Abigail Cole, was read by the worthy matron at the close of the meeting. Following the meeting, refreshments were served from a table decorated with a red, white and blue floral arrangement and streamers, in keeping with the patriotic theme. Muriel Miller and committee were in charge of the social hour. A special program, under the direction of Marie Bennett, is being planned for the next meeting on March 10.

World Day Of Prayer Scheduled For Friday

The annual World Day of Prayer Service for the Circleville area will be held Friday, March 6 beginning 1:30 p.m. in the Community United Methodist Church, located at the corner of E. Main and Pickaway Sts. On this day Circleville will be one of 25,000 communities where identical prayers will be offered in seventy-five languages and a thousand dialects, making a bond of prayer spanning six continents. The local service is sponsored and planned by the Circleville Council of Church Women, Mrs. Joseph Carle, president. The theme is "Take Courage" and Mrs. William (Fritz) Cox of the Community United Methodist Church has prepared a talk on "Women of Courage", in which some local "women of courage" will be recognized. Special music will be provided by Mrs. Charlotte Hill and a choir composed of women from 11 local churches will lead the singing. The church nursery will be staffed for the convenience of those with small children. This annual chain of prayer links, the first voice at dawn in the tropical Tonga Islands just west of the international date line, with millions of others as it passes throughout the day around the world. By nightfall, its message of hope will have followed the sun's arc until the last prayers are said by Christians in Hawaii and the furthestmost islands of Alaska. The theme, "Take Courage" was chosen by an international committee headed by Miss Gudrun Diestel of Germany. The program was developed by a housewife from Egypt, a social worker from Guyana, a church worker from the Philippines and a woman from the United States of America who all discovered a common bond of worship and witness. The challenge of the 70's across the continents is to bear witness to one's convictions when morals and decadence are at a premium. In India, Kenya or the U.S.A. it takes courage to do this, in this new decade which reflects so many changes to families the world over. Courage to take responsible action is needed everywhere. This annual service provides an opportunity for nation and world-wide participation in an offering dedicated to helping others "take courage." Funds received will help provide new religious educational materials for Latin Americans and Spanish-speaking families in this country; support of a secretary for women's work of the Near East Christian Council; help dispossessed Spanish migrant and American Indian communities, as well as grants for Christian literature on six continents, and to Christian colleges in Asia and Africa. All local people, men and women, are most cordially invited to attend this service. Mrs. Gerald Wolford is chairman of the committee making the arrangements.

Dental authorities advise brushing teeth the way they grow: down on the upper teeth, and up on the lower teeth. All surfaces of the teeth should be brushed with a dentifrice for at least 90 seconds.

Circleville Garden Club Program Is Book Reviews

Circleville Garden Club members met Thursday evening in the home of Miss Elizabeth Tolbert, 523 Mowrer Road. Guests were Mrs. Henry J. Wears, Miss Mary Jane Watt and Miss Ruth Stout. The program was presented by Miss Ruth Montelius who reviewed three books. The first was "An 18th Century Garland — Colonial Williamsburg," by Louise B. Fisher. She was the first to arrange flowers and dried material in Williamsburg. The arrangements were of the true colonial styling. Many varieties of garden flowers and wild materials were used and are still used today. The correct cutting of the materials was explained. Antique containers were used giving the colonial effect. The second book was "How to Make Cut Flowers Last" by Victoria R. Kaspeiski. The various types of garden grown and greenhouse materials require different ways of hardening such as warm, hot and cold water, crushed and split stems, removal of leaves on some while others must maintain them. In detail Miss Montelius discussed how a rose must be readied for a show. The third book was "Pressed Flower Pictures" by Van Nostran. This is an old art made new and extremely popular at the present time. Many types of materials can be incorporated to produce beautiful and lasting created talent. William Cook, president, presided during the business session. He read the poem "A Winter Garden" by Carrie Voiers. Mrs. Donald H. Watt reviewed the new catalogues for this year. She displayed the Thompson and Morgan catalogue from London, England with its unusual listings. To try the impossible one challenge is growing an olive tree, using the seed from a black olive. Over 25 new varieties of plants were discussed. Mrs. Watt concluded her portion of the program by telling of the water treatment for forcing branch blooming for forsythia, pussy willows, crab apples, Japanese quince, plum, sycamore, lilacs red maple as well as many more. During the social hour, Mr. Cook reviewed the 14th Annual Dispatch Charities and Columbus Landscape Garden Show to be held Feb. 28 through March 8. The 16 displays will each offer something different and highly educational to gardeners and the general public. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Andrews, 195 Meadow Drive, will host the 8 p.m. Friday meeting in their home. The program will be presented by Miss Tolbert and Mrs. Harry C. Kern.

Beth Glick, 18, is one of the chosen seniors of the week at Teays Valley.

She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John W. Glick, 81 Powell Street, Ashville. This is her first year at Teays Valley. She attended Laurelville High School last year.

Some of her favorites are the color lavender, drivers' education class and cheeseburgers. Beth is active in intramurals and the Drama Club. She enjoys horseback riding and reading.

When asked her opinion of TVHS, she commented, "I think it is a tuff school."

Her plans after graduation are undecided.

Barb Edwards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Edwards, Route 1, Lockbourne.

She is enrolled in a college prep course and plans to attend Ohio State University.

Barb lists her activities as GAA, Drama Club, FTA, yearbook staff and library staff.

Her pastimes are driving her car, attending ball games and going to play practice.

Pam Bush is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Bush, Route 3, Circleville. Enrolled in the business course, Pam's favorite subject is Shorthand II.

Her activities include president of FHA, chaplain of Honor Society, secretary of FTA annual staff, girls' interscholastic basketball, GAA and Blue and Gold Staff. Her hobbies are having fun and sewing.

After graduation, Pam plans to get a summer job, then go to Bauder Fashion College in Florida.

Mrs. Nixon Starts Tour

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will visit Cincinnati and Kentucky Tuesday and Wednesday as part of a five state tour to observe how young people, particularly college students, are helping others.

She is scheduled to arrive here at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and will be in the area until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. She will visit the campuses of the University of Cincinnati and the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Mrs. Nixon will also visit hospitals in both states and other institutions to see how young people are using their spare time voluntarily to tutor students, work in hospitals and other voluntary work.

She will have a private dinner at a downtown hotel Tuesday night and will visit several places Wednesday morning before leaving here.

Her tour officials emphasized that the trip does not involve politics but merely is to see how young people are helping to solve domestic problems in the country.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the huge and apparently unsolvable problems that confronts mo of television's entertainment producers is the months that elapse between the week in which a program was filmed or taped and the hour in which it is broadcast.

Debbie Reynolds, for just one example, had completed nine programs in her new series by the end of last July.

By mid-October the producers knew that something was wrong. But it was too late for first aid. The series never recovered and was not renewed for next season.

There is, therefore, something to be said for the flexibility and timeliness of Ed Sullivan's weekly hour. Much of the time it is a live show or, like Sunday night's CBS program, it was put together a short time before the broadcast date.

If Sullivan's popularity seems to be flagging, the show can be built up on short notice with big star names. If a new face or a new fad appears suddenly, the face or the fad can be added quickly to the next show.

The most recent Sullivan hour was an ingenious exploitation of the Beatles—by the use of film clips showing the now-bearded boys singing, plus a collection of top-drawer talent singing and playing music the Beatles have written.

Performers included Dionne Warwick, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, Duke Ellington and Peggy Lee. In one of the brightest moments, an old bit of tape or film showed Paul McCartney singing his "Yesterday." This was combined by camera and sound track with the singing of Miss Warwick and Miss Lee, who thus worked their way into what had originally been a solo.

The casual viewer might have received the impression that the Beatles had actually been present for the taping of the show. But tricky or not, it was a good, entertaining hour based on a bright idea.

"The Boston Spy Party" on Saturday was NBC's most recent hour special for children. It was a highly fanciful treatment surrounding the British defeat at Bunker Hill.

The story was built around a modern young boy who was dreaming he was involved in the American Revolution. And since it was all a dream, there could be jolly little exchanges with historical figures including Gen. Washington. There was a wild plot about a company of actors who were actually agents and saboteurs for the rebellious colonists. The Americans were good guys and British were both bad and stupid.

The hour was handsomely produced, broadly acted and full of some strange interpretations of American history. While it was undoubtedly better than the cartoons it pre-empted, its script and premise were not of top quality.

Unitarians Turn Church Over To Black Members

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Unitarian Society church valued at $265,000 was turned over to the Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus (BUUC) Sunday, ending a 20-year struggle by a group of white Unitarians to maintain an integrated church in Cleveland's Hough area.

BUUC Chairman Raymond Wofford called the gift of the 62-year-old church to the minority group of Black Unitarians a historic step "in the true quality of race relations."

The congregation, which had been bitterly divided over the transfer, linked hands and sang "Shalom" as the deed to the building was handed over to Wofford.

Unitarian Society Board Chairman James I. Huston called the transfer a "symbol of rebirth of our church." It has always been an integrated church, Huston said, but it has not been a "spiritually integrated one."

The church at East 82nd Street and Euclid Avenue was built as First Unitarian Church, but when that church moved from the racially changing area to suburban Shaker Heights in 1959 the building was sold to the Unitarian Society for $40,000—far below the value placed on the land and building by church officials.

The society, including many whites who elected to stay with the building when First Unitarian moved out, sought to maintain an integrated church. But last fall the minister, the Rev. Farley W. Wheelwright, gave up, and the membership agreed to a request of the black minority — about 30 of the 270 members—that the property be handed over to them.

Alleged Numbers Operators Called

Freeze-Dry Preservation Of Animals Now Perfected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution for the past 10 years has been perfecting a technique of freeze-dry preservation of smaller animal, reptile and fish exhibits.

The method by-passes the conventional mounting procedures of skinning and drying and in the process reduces shrinking to a minimum.

Roland O. Hower, chief of exhibits research, has developed equipment that permits dehydration of the frozen specimen and the dehydrated tissue is not subject to decay.

Hower said the process permits a man to do five times as much work. A skilled taxidermist could mount a duck in a day, he said, but with the freeze-dry method one worker could handle five ducks.

Most reptile exhibits are actually castings of snakes and made of plaster of paris. With Hower's process, viewers are looking at the actual snakes.

Simplified, the process works this way: the specimen is posed and then frozen; it is then placed in a special vacuum tank and with a cold trap and vacuum pump the frozen moisture is removed, bypassing the liquid stage.

The process is limited to smaller animals because of equipment limitations, but Hower said a six foot alligator had been mounted with this process.

He is now experimenting with more sophisticated equipment and investigating problems on color retention. There has been some distortion of colors on fish and of the bright orange and yellow in reptiles.

WHS Seniors Set Pancake Supper

Westfall's "Seniors to Washington D. C." are sponsoring an All-You-Can-Eat Pancake and Sausage Supper March 21. Proceeds from the dinner will help cover expenses for a senior trip this summer to the nation's capital.

A drawing for a portable color television set will be held following the dinner which will be served from 5 - 7:30 p.m. at the Westfall High School. You need not be present to win. Tickets for the drawing and the supper are available from any club member or by phone from Kay Whitted at 986-3032.

Lewis Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Vivian Lewis of Wilberforce, Ohio, was appointed Sunday by President Nixon to the National Advisory Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children.

"We do not want to be dictated to by a relatively small group of fashion designers either here or in France."

Women To Take Up Arms Against Longer Skirts

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Complaints arose over the below-knee skirt length called midi but nobody did anything about it, until the ladies planned POOFF Week.

"We're starting immediately to solicit signatures for a petition against the new, ugly, unfeminine fashions, especially the midi," say the ladies.

POOFF, which stands for Preservation of our Femininity and Finances, is the creation of two dozen women who live in and around Beverly Hills.

Most of them wear miniskirts. Time for action is short, the ladies say, because manufacturers and retailers are deciding now the skirt lengths to sell this fall.

Therefore, POOFF week begins March 8, when the ladies will bear down on collecting petition signatures.

They say they will encourage both men and women to sign the petition, which will be sent to designers, to stores and "to anyone who can stop this hoax."

President Juli Hutner says, "A lot of people might say we're a frivolous lot to spend our time on something like this when there are more important things to worry about. But suddenly someone is interfering with our lives. And they're trying to make fools of us. There are millions of women who can't afford to change their fashion every whipstitch."

"We do not want to be dictated to by a relatively small group of fashion designers either here or in France."

100th Anniversary

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the huge and apparently unsolvable problems that confronts the television industry is the month that elapses between the week in which a program was filmed or taped and the hour in which it is broadcast.

Debbie Reynolds, for just one example, had completed nine programs in her new series by the end of last July.

By mid-October the producers knew that something was wrong. But it was too late for first aid. The series never recovered and was not renewed for next season.

There is, therefore, something to be said for the flexibility and timeliness of Ed Sullivan's weekly hour. Much of the time it is a live show or, like Sunday night's CBS program, it was put together a short time before the broadcast date.

If Sullivan's popularity seems to be flagging, the show can be built up on short notice with big star names. If a new face or a new ad appears suddenly, the face or the ad can be added quickly to the next show.

The most recent Sullivan hour was an ingenious exploitation of the Beatles—by the use of film clips showing the now-bearded boys singing, plus a collection of top-drawer talent singing and playing music the Beatles have written.

Performers included Dionne Warwick, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, Duke Ellington

and Peggy Lee. In one of the brightest moments, an old bit of tape or film showed Paul McCartney singing his "Yesterday." This was combined by camera and sound track with the singing of Miss Warwick and Miss Lee, who thus worked their way into what had originally been a solo.

The casual viewer might have received the impression that the Beatles had actually been present for the taping of the show. But tricky or not, it was a good, entertaining hour based on a bright idea.

"The Boston Spy Party" on Saturday was NBC's most recent hour special for children. It was a highly fanciful treatment surrounding the British defeat at Bunker Hill.

The story was built around a modern young boy who was dreaming he was involved in the American Revolution. And since it was all a dream, there could be jolly little exchanges with historical figures including Gen. Washington. There was a wild plot about a company of actors who were actually agents and saboteurs for the rebellious colonists. The Americans were good guys and British were both bad and stupid.

The hour was handsomely produced, broadly acted and full of some strange interpretations of American history. While it was undoubtedly better than the cartoons it pre-empted, its script and premise were not of top quality.

Unitarians Turn Church Over To Black Members

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Unitarian Society church valued at $265,000 was turned over to the Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus (BUUC)

Sunday, ending a 20-year struggle by a group of white Unitarians to maintain an integrated church in Cleveland's Hough area.

BUUC Chairman Raymond Wofford called the gift of the 62-year-old church to the minority group of Black Unitarians a historic step "in the true quality of race relations."

The congregation, which had been bitterly divided over the transfer, linked hands and sang "Shalom" as the deed to the building was handed over to Wofford.

Unitarian Society Board Chairman James I. Huston called the transfer a "symbol of rebirth of our church." It has always been an integrated church, Huston said, but it has not been a "spiritually integrated one."

The church at East 82nd Street and Euclid Avenue was built as First Unitarian Church, but when that church moved from the racially changing area to suburban Shaker Heights in 1959 the building was sold to the Unitarian Society for $40,000—far below the value placed on the land and building by church officials.

The society, including many whites who elected to stay with the building when First Unitarian moved out, sought to maintain an integrated church.

But last fall the minister, the Rev. Farley W. Wheelwright, gave up, and the membership agreed to a request of the black minority — about 30 of the 270 members—that the property be handed over to them.

When the change was first considered, the Rev. Mr. Wheelwright said "whites are scared to come down" now from the suburban heights areas.

Testifying at a court hearing during a legal battle over the transfer, the minister said he thought the black leadership could better serve the community and attract "more groups that we have been able to attract as a white organization."

He defended the turnover to blacks by testifying that the church's aim was "to create among black people... a viable society in which integration would be possible."

Alleged Numbers Operators Called

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two alleged numbers operators will be called to testify Thursday when the Franklin County grand jury opens an investigation into the numbers racket here.

Lewis "Moon" Mullins and Charles Wilkins have been subpoenaed. Both appeared earlier in the U.S. District court trial of eight Columbus policemen and a gambler charged with protecting numbers operators. All were acquitted.

Freeze-Dry Preservation Of Animals Now Perfected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution for the past 10 years has been perfecting a technique of freeze-dry preservation of smaller animal, reptile and fish exhibits.

The method by-passes the conventional mounting procedures of skinning and drying and in the process reduces shrinking to a minimum.

Roland O. Hower, chief of exhibits research, has developed equipment that permits dehydration of the frozen specimen and the dehydrated tissue is not subject to decay.

Hower said the process permits a man to do five times as much work. A skilled taxidermist could mount a duck in a day, he said, but with the freeze-dry method one worker could handle five ducks.

Jeff Reisinger Top Cager In Southeast Ohio

By GEORGE STRODE, Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Denny Thompson of Class AA Waverly High School and Jeff Reisinger, star of Zane Trace's Class A poll champions, were named today as the outstanding basketball players in Southeast Ohio.

Jeff Reisinger and Chip Maxwell were named first team Class A All-Southeastern Ohio by district sportswriters and broadcasters.

Westfall's Greg Bigam was named to the second team and Mark Shaw and Marty Unger were given honorable mention. Class AA recognition was given to Dave Wisecup of Greenfield and Marty Jones of Miami Trace, both being given honorable mention honors.

A district panel of sports writers and broadcasters named Charlie McAfee of Athens in Class AA and Ron Hall of Zane Trace in Class A as area coaches of the year for The Associated Press.

The panel also selected the all-district squads, which were led by Thompson and Reisinger.

Thompson, a 6-foot senior who averaged 21.6 for Waverly's Southern Ohio Conference kings, comes from a basketball-playing family. His brothers Henderson and Ken were Morehead (Ky.) College stars and brother Bob is on the Ohio State varsity.

Reisinger, a 6-6 senior center, has averaged between 22 and 23 points in the last two seasons, leading the Ross County power to 46 straight regular season wins.

Hall, an Ohio University grad, easily won Class A coaching honors for the district while McAfee, who bagged his 500th career victory during the regular season, swept the Class AA coaching title.

Thompson's mates on the all-district Class AA squad were Don Winefordner of Athens, Mark Shaw of Logan, Joe DeFilippo of Lancaster and Fred Myers of Portsmouth.

Named to the Class A district first team with Reisinger were Roger Smith of Western of Pike County, Bob Leeper of Glouster, Dave Poling of Starr-Washington and Chip Maxwell of Zane Trace.

ZT Downs Flaget, 65-43, To Gain District Berth

Zane Trace crushed the Panthers of Bishop Flaget, 65-43, Saturday night to win the Class A Sectional Tournament at Chillicothe and move into the District Tournament at Chillicothe.

Displaying a good offense and a skin tight defense the Panthers continued their bid for top spot in the state.

for All-Ohio honors, again led the Panthers down the victory trail. Hitting 10 from the floor and adding four from the foul stripe Reisinger garnered 24 points in the fracas although he fouled out with 2:41 remaining in the fourth stanza.

break, 51-26 at the end of the third quarter and when the final buzzer sounded the scoreboard read 65-43 with Trace on the big end of the count.

Rebounding honors went to the Panthers getting 35 rebounds and the Panthers gained 23. Reisinger picked off 15 rebounds for Trace and Fritsche pulled down nine for the Flaget squad.

Turnovers were about even as Zane Trace was guilty of 13 misplays while Bishop Flaget erred 12 times.

Trace will see action in the Chillicothe District Tourney at 7:30 p.m. Friday meeting the winner of the Wheelersburg - Minford fray.

Laurelville Ends Tourney Trail With 60-45 Loss

Laurelville reached the end of its tournament trail Saturday, losing to Federal Hocking, 60-45, in the sectional finals at Nelsonville York.

It marked the end of the most successful season the Wildcats have had in recent years. They finished the season with an 18-3 overall record and won a share of the Scioto Valley Conference cage title with a 5-1 mark, losing only to Unioto in league play.

In addition to Unioto and Federal Hocking, losses were to powerful Zane Trace and to Chillicothe Bishop Flaget.

It was the final game in Wildcat uniform for Mike Shaw, Marty Unger, Steve Smith, Rick Fast and Mike Eveland.

IN Saturday's game, the Wildcats trailed 14-10 at the end of the first quarter and 28-18 at halftime. After three periods, they were behind, 42-32.

In the fourth quarter the Wildcats pulled within six at one time but could get no closer.

The Wildcats made 20 of 55 shots from the field, a 36 per cent shooting average. At the foul line they made only five of 13, a 38 per cent mark. In the last half Laurelville cagers stepped to the charity stripe eight times and made only one shot.

Federal Hocking made 23 of 60 shots from the field, a 38 per cent average and 14 of 28 from the foul line, a 50 per cent average. Federal Hocking had two foul shots going into the second half and converted 12 times at the charity stripe in the final two quarters when they had 21 opportunities.

Laurelville had 25 turnovers in the game, compared to 14 for the winners. The Wildcats won the battle of the boards, pulling down 36 rebounds while the Federal Hocking Quintet pulled down 34.

The leading scorer for coach Jim Arnold's quintet was Mike Shaw with 13 points on six field goals and one foul shot. Dave Thompson and Marty Unger scored 10 each. Roger Weaver tallied four, Steve Smith five, Rick Fast two and Mike Eveland one.

For Federal Hocking, Ball tallied 20 points on nine buckets from the field and two at the charity stripe.

Tiger Matmen Get 4 Places

Circleville placed four wrestlers in the District Tournament to be held at Upper Arlington Friday and Saturday.

Jeff Harr, Doyle Kiser, Bill Fowler and Mark Davey all won berths as a result of their victories in the sectional meet at Franklin Heights Saturday.

Harr has a season record of 13-8. Kiser is 16-2-2. Fowler sports a 20-3 record and Davey is 16-4 on the season.

Fowler won the sectional championship in the 175-pound class. Davey placed second in the 137-pound class and Harr took fourth spot in the 107-pound division.

National League Players Face 602 Night Contests

CINCINNATI (AP) — National League players face a record 602 night games this year and Houston will compete in more home night contests than any other team—65.

The Astros, who also led in the category in 1968 with 68 home night games, will be followed by Atlanta, Los Angeles and San Diego who all have scheduled 63 games under the lights at home.

Since Chicago's Wrigley Field still lacks lights, of course, and the Cubs will have no home night games.

San Francisco will host only 26 night games after playing 18 at home last season.

New York will play 35 night games at home, Pittsburgh 33, St. Louis 57, Philadelphia 58, Montreal 59 and Cincinnati 60.

The Reds, by tradition, will kick off the National League season by entertaining the Montreal Expos on April 6 and the remainder of the teams—except for St. Louis—will open up April 7 when Chicago will be at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at Los Angeles, Atlanta at San Diego and Houston at San Francisco.

St. Louis will not play until April 8 when it travels to Montreal for the Expos' first contest at home.

On April 10, the Cardinals and Astros begin their home seasons by meeting the Mets and Braves respectively and home opening dates will be completed on April 13 with Pittsburgh at New York, Philadelphia at Chicago and San Francisco at Atlanta.

Three teams are slated to move into new stadiums this year.

Philadelphia is scheduled to get into its new park on May 5 against San Diego. Pittsburgh's first game listed for its new stadium is on May 29 against the Giants and Cincinnati figures to have its stadium ready for Atlanta on June 30.

The Major League All-Star game is to be played at the Reds' new facility on July 14.

Mike Hill Wins Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Little Jackson, Mich., has long been famous as the site of the Michigan State Prison and as hometown to golf star Dave Hill. Now there's a new Hill in town.

Mike "Don't Call Me Dave" Hill pulled alongside his brother Sunday as a golfer of note by bagging the Doral Open Golf tournament and its $30,000 top money.

This fellow Mike is 31 years old, looks 21 and talks like he is 61. In the moment of his first great triumph, Hill No. 2 spoke of retirement.

"I was raised in a farming area and would like nothing better than to settle down on a spread of my own," said Mike. "I've seen this pro tour fray many a man's nerves. When that happens to me, I'm gone."

Hill grinned and said, "I guess I might have added a couple of acres with this $30,000 check."

Things haven't come easy for Mike. He tried twice to pass the golf tour's entrance exams at the PGA National Golf Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., and twice he missed by one stroke. Hill survived the third time around 22 months ago.

Mike began Sunday's final round at Doral with a three-shot lead. He once dropped into a three-way deadlock but stormed back to win by four over Jim Colbert, a 165-pound former Kansas State football halfback.

"I didn't start matching myself against anybody until it was Colbert and me," said Hill. "I had a three-stroke lead then and decided to play for pars. If he could make three birdies in five holes on this course, Jim deserved to catch me."

Hill was calm as he picked up the check that nearly doubles

Kentucky Derby Countdown Starts By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
The countdown starts this week for the Kentucky Derby, the first leg of racing's triple Crown classics for 3-year-olds.

The occasion will be the $100,000-added Flamingo Stakes Tuesday at the closing day of the Hialeah meeting in Florida. The Flamingo usually produces a strong contender for the Churchill Downs classic at Louisville in May and this year is no exception.

Silent Screen, the champion 2-year-old of 1969, remains the favorite for the Flamingo although a large field is expected to test the Sonny Werblin-owned colt in his first try at the distance of 1 1/4 miles.

Mike Phipps of Purdue completed five passes last season that gained more than 50 yards.

Bud Schaibly Leads Bowling Tournament

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Bud Schaibly of North Chicago, Ill., leads in three divisions after the first weekend of action in the Golden Anniversary Elks National Bowling Tournament here.

Schaibly took the lead in scratch singles Saturday with a record 749 mark, shattering the old record of 743 set 43 years ago by H. B. Votel of East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Schaibly took the top spot Sunday in the scratch all events division with 2,073 pins and in the singles handicap division with a 764 total.

7 Teams Win NCAA Cage Berths

Previous entrants were St. Bonaventure, Penn. Niagara, Villanova, Notre Dame, Western Kentucky, Jacksonville, Kentucky, Houston, Dayton, New Mexico State, Kansas State, Weber State, Long Beach State and Utah.

Three spots remain to be filled. Drake can take Missouri Valley laurels by beating St. Louis on Thursday, Santa Clara and Pacific are tied for the West Coast A.C. lead with two games left and the powerful Atlantic Coast Conference holds its post-season tournament next weekend to determine a representative.

Before UCLA begins NCAA play, the Bruins must play two games with Southern California. The games are meaningless, but the Trojans handed UCLA its only setback last season and the Bruins haven't forgotten.

UCLA meets the winner of the Weber State-Long Beach game in the West Regionals March 12 and you can bet Coach John Wooden is thinking about that one.

Iowa, ranked ninth, withstood a Big Ten record 61 points by Purdue's Rick Mount and nipped the defending champs 108-107 on John Johnson's corner jump shot with 27 seconds left. It was the Hawkeyes' 14th consecutive victory.

Davidson won the Southern Conference tourney by trouncing Richmond 81-61, Ohio U. shaded Bowling Green 77-76 in the Mid-American showdown on two free throws by Tom Corde with seven seconds remaining and Temple, last season's National Invitation Tournament winner, beat St. Joseph's 63-59 for Middle Atlantic honors.

Rice nailed down the SWC title with an 82-73 decision over Texas Christian while Texas A&M and Texas Tech both lost.

NCAA first-round play gets under way next Saturday.

The NIT, with four of its 16 berths filled, will name some more teams today. Likely picks include Army and Duquesne, but the NIT will draw some attractive teams from the Missouri Valley and Atlantic Coast also.

In other weekend action, top-ranked Kentucky got by Vanderbilt 90-86 behind Dan Issel's 31 points; No. 3 St. Bonaventure crushed Niagara 104-68; No. 4 South Carolina drubbed North Carolina State 85-69; fifth-ranked New Mexico State defeated Utah 104-92; sixth-ranked Jacksonville was idle; No. 7 Penn clobbered Cornell 97-63;

Marquette, No. 8, downed Creighton 76-66 and 10th-ranked Florida State, ineligible for post-season play, wrapped up a 23-3 season with a 112-96 win over Miami, Fla.

ed its fifth league title since 1960. The Bobcats will face Notre Dame in a first round Mid-East Regional Tournament game Saturday in Dayton.

"On our spread (stall) offense," Bowling Green Coach Bob Conibear said, "we just don't throw the ball cross-court. But I can't blame the kid (McLemore) for it."

Ohio U., climaxing its greatest regular season of 20-4, nearly blew a 10-point lead in the first half and a five-point margin with 5 1/2 minutes left.

The Bobcats, led by Craig Love's 18 points and 13 rebounds, ended 91-1 in the league and sagged Bowling Green to 7-3 conference and 14-9 records.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor may prefer the road to Big Ten king Iowa Tuesday night after the Buckeyes absorbed a third straight home loss, $2-80 from Michigan State.

"This is just like winning the NCAA title for us," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas, whose Spartans won on Bob Gale's rebound basket with three seconds left. Gale is averaging two points a game for the season.

Dayton upset Notre Dame 95-79 in an unpleasant test of the Flyers' court for the Irish, who met Ohio U. on the same floor next Saturday in NCAA regional play.

The Flyers, who go against Houston in the Midwest Regional tournament at Fort Worth, Tex., led by as much as 16 points in the first half, but the Irish closed to within five in the second stanza.

Los Angeles defeated Boston 120-114 Sunday while Philadelphia turned back Baltimore 104-99. Any combination of 76er victories and Celtics defeats totaling six will eliminate the defending champs from the Eastern Division playoff race.

Elsewhere, Phoenix downed Atlanta 109-98, slicing the Hawks' Western Division lead to one-half game over the Lakers. Milwaukee beat Cincinnati 120-114, San Diego trimmed Chicago 135-122 and Detroit whipped San Francisco 116-99.

Los Angeles' Jerry West and Elgin Baylor combined for 62 points, 39 in the second half, as the Lakers checked repeated Boston rallies.

West finished with 33 points and Baylor with 29. Don Nelson topped the losers with 30 points.

Phoenix never led Atlanta until Connie Hawkins' basket in the final minute of the third period gave the Suns a 72-81 edge. The score was deadlocked at 83 before Gail Goodrich put the Suns ahead to stay with 7 1/2 minutes left.

Hawkins paced Phoenix with 30 points and Goodrich added 22. Lou Hudson scored 30 and Joe Caldwell 29 for the Hawks.

The Suns' triumph increased their third-place lead to 1 1/2 games over Chicago.

OU Edges Falcons, 77-76, To Take MAC Cage Crown

By GEORGE STRODE, Associated Press Sports Writer

An errant Bowling Green pass and a sophomore's clutch foul shooting has Ohio University wearing the Mid-American Conference basketball crown and preparing for an NCAA Tournament shot.

Tom Corde, only sophomore among Ohio U.'s first seven players, calmly swished two free throws with seven seconds to go, which gave the Bobcats the margin they needed in a 77-76 victory Saturday over the Falcons.

Dan McLemore's cross-court pass sailed out of bounds with 30 seconds left, ending the Falcons' stall for a last shot and setting up Corde's heroics before the largest crowd (14,102) ever to see a Mid-American game.

"That's the sweetest shower I ever had," said Bobcat Coach Jim Snyder after Ohio U. earned ed its fifth league title since 1960. The Bobcats will face Notre Dame in a first round Mid-East Regional Tournament game Saturday in Dayton.

Licking Valley Downs Amanda Aces, 67-39

Utilizing a tight zone defense Licking Valley held Amanda Clearcreek to a meager 11 points in the first half and defeated the Aces, 67-39, in the finals of the Lancaster Class A Sectional Saturday night.

Ty Cramer with 21 points and Steve Martin with 20 led the Licking Valley squad to a big victory and a berth in the Columbus District Class A Tournament.

Licking led all the way and was never in danger jumping off to a first period lead, 13-5. They led at halftime 24-11, increased the margin to 40-21 at the end of the third canto and finished with a 67-39 margin.

Jeff Reisinger Top Cager In Southeast Ohio

By GEORGE STRODE, Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Denny Thompson of Class AA Waverly High School and Jeff Reisinger, star of Zane Trace's Class A poll champions, were named today as the outstanding basketball players in Southeast Ohio.

Jeff Reisinger and Chip Maxwell were named first team Class A All-Southeastern Ohio by district sportswriters and broadcasters.

Westfall's Greg Bigam was named to the second team and Mark Shaw and Marty Unger were given honorable mention.

Class AA recognition was given to Dave Wisecup of Greenfield and Marty Jones of Miami Trace, both being given honorable mention honors.

A district panel of sports writers and broadcasters named Charlie McAfee of Athens in Class AA and Ron Hall of Zane Trace in Class A as area coaches of the year for The Associated Press.

The panel also selected the all-district squads, which were led by Thompson and Reisinger.

Thompson, a 6-foot senior who averaged 21.6 for Waverly's Southern Ohio Conference kings, comes from a basketball-playing family. His brothers Henderson and Ken were Morehead (Ky.) College stars and brother Bob is on the Ohio State varsity.

Reisinger, a 6-6 senior center, has averaged between 22 and 23 points in the last two seasons, leading the Ross County power to 46 straight regular season wins.

Hall, an Ohio University grad, easily won Class A coaching honors for the district while Mc-Afee, who bagged his 500th career victory during the regular season, swept the Class AA coaching title.

Thompson's mates on the all-district Class AA squad were Don Winefordner of Athens, Mark Shaw of Logan, Joe DeFillippo of Lancaster and Fred Myers of Portsmouth.

Named to the Class A district first team with Reisinger were Roger Smith of Western of Pike County, Bob Leeper of Gloucester, Dave Poling of Starr-Washington and Chip Maxwell of Zane Trace.

ZT Downs Flaget, 65-43, To Gain District Berth

Zane Trace crushed the Panthers of Bishop Flaget, 65-43, Saturday night to win the Class A Sectional Tournament at Chillicothe and move into the District Tournament at Chillicothe.

Displaying a good offense and a skin tight defense the Panthers continued their bid for top spot in the state.

Jeff Reisinger, a candidate for All-Ohio honors, again led the Panthers down the victory trail. Hitting 10 from the floor and adding four from the foul stripe Reisinger garnered 24 points in the fracas although he fouled out with 2:41 remaining in the fourth stanza.

Dave Hammond followed suit as he added 13-markers to the Pioneer total. Chip Maxwell and Joe Park contributed 11 apiece, Tom Davis had five and Dick Damron added one to the ledger.

JEFF Kirkham with 13 and Bob Fritsche with 11 were double figure shooters for the Panthers of Bishop Flaget.

Trace jumped out in front and the Panthers were never able to catch up. The Panthers led 19-7 at the conclusion of the first canto, 37-19 at the halftime break, 51-26 at the end of the third quarter and when the final buzzer sounded the scoreboard read 65-43 with Trace on the big end of the count.

Zane Trace hit 25 of 57 from the field and 15 of 22 from the charity line while Flaget had 15 of 56 from the floor and 13 of 22 from the foul stripe.

Rebounding honors went to the Panthers getting 35 rebounds and the Panthers gained 23. Reisinger picked off 15 rebounds for Trace and Fritsche pulled down nine for the Flaget squad.

Turnovers were about even as Zane Trace was guilty of 13 misplays while Bishop Flaget erred 12 times.

Trace will see action in the Chillicothe District Tourney at 7:30 p.m. Friday meeting the winner of the Wheelersburg - Minford fray.

Laurelville Ends Tourney Trail With 60-45 Loss

Laurelville reached the end of its tournament trail Saturday, losing to Federal Hocking, 60-45, in the sectional finals at Nelsonville York.

It marked the end of the most successful season the Wildcats have had in recent years. They finished the season with an 18-3 overall record and won a share of the Scioto Valley Conference cage title with a 5-1 mark, losing only to Unioto in league play.

In addition to Unioto and Federal Hocking, losses were to powerful Zane Trace and to Chillicothe Bishop Flaget.

It was the final game in Wildcat uniform for Mike Shaw, Marty Unger, Steve Smith, Rick Fast and Mike Eveland.

IN Saturday's game, the Wildcats trailed 14-10 at the end of the first quarter and 28-18 at halftime. After three periods, they were behind, 42-32.

In the fourth quarter the Wildcats pulled within six at one time but could get no closer.

The Wildcats made 20 of 55 shots from the field, a 36 per cent shooting average. At the foul line they made only five of 13, a 38 per cent mark. In the last half Laurelville cagers stepped to the charity stripe eight times and made only one shot.

Federal Hocking made 23 of 60 shots from the field, a 38 per cent average and 14 of 26 from the foul line, a 54 per cent average. Federal Hocking had two foul shots going into the second half and converted 12 times at the charity stripe in the final two quarters when they had 21 opportunities.

Laurelville had 25 turnovers in the game, compared to 14 for the winners. The Wildcats won the battle of the boards, pulling down 36 rebounds while the Federal Hocking Quintet pulled down 34.

The leading scorer for coach Jim Arnold's quintet was Mike Shaw with 13 points on six field goals and one foul shot. Dave Thompson and Marty Unger scored 10 each. Roger Weaver tallied four, Steve Smith five, Rick Fast two and Mike Eveland one.

For Federal Hocking, Ball tallied 20 points on nine buckets from the field and two at the charity stripe.

Mike Hill Wins Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Little Jackson, Mich., has long been famous as the site of the Michigan State Prison and as hometown to golf star Dave Hill. Now there's a new Hill in town.

Mike "Don't Call Me Dave" Hill pulled alongside his brother Sunday as a golfer of note by bagging the Doral Open Golf tournament and its $30,000 top money.

This fellow Mike is 31 years old, looks 21 and talks like he is 61. In the moment of his first great triumph, Hill No. 2 spoke of retirement.

"I was raised in a farming area and would like nothing better than to settle down on a spread of my own," said Mike. "I've seen this pro tour fray many a man's nerves. When that happens to me, I'm gone."

Hill grinned and said, "I guess I might have added a couple of acres with this $30,000 check."

Things haven't come easy for Mike. He tried twice to pass the golf tour's entrance exams at the PGA National Golf Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., and twice he missed by one stroke. Hill survived the third time around 22 months ago.

Mike began Sunday's final round at Doral with a three-shot lead. He once dropped into a three-way deadlock but stormed back to win by four over Jim Colbert, a 165-pound former Kansas State football halfback.

"I didn't start matching myself against anybody until it was Colbert and me," said Hill. "I had a three-stroke lead then and decided to play for pars. If he could make three birdies in five holes on this course, Jim deserved to catch me."

Hill was calm as he picked up the check that nearly doubles his $16,239 earnings of last year. "I won't feel the true impact until Monday morning," he said. "I'm so pumped up now I'm numb."

Mike fired rounds of 70-69-71 for his nine-under par total of 279. He plans to lay around the plush Doral site for a couple of days, but won't play golf.

"I figure that I've licked this tough course to the tune of nine under par for four days," he said. "Well, I'm just going to let it lie until this time next year."

The one-beaten and second-ranked Bruins, going for their fourth consecutive national championship, nailed down the Pacific Eight crown by routing California 109-95.

Actually, UCLA has won five of the last six NCAA tourneys. The only intruder was Texas-El Paso, then known as Texas Western, in 1966. The Miners gained one of the 25 berths Saturday by edging Utah 83-82 for the Western Athletic Conference title.

The other five conference champs to make it were Iowa in the Big Ten, Davidson in the Southern, Ohio U. in the Mid-American, Rice in the Southwest and Temple in the Middle Atlantic.

UCLA meets the winner of the Weber State-Long Beach game in the West Regionals March 12 and you can bet Coach John Wooden is thinking about that one.

Iowa, ranked ninth, withstood a Big Ten record 61 points by Purdue's Rick Mount and nipped the defending champs 108-107 on John Johnson's corner jump shot with 27 seconds left.

Kentucky Derby Countdown Starts

By TED MEIER

The countdown starts this week for the Kentucky Derby, the first leg of racing's triple crown classics for 3-year-olds.

The occasion will be the $100,000-added Flamingo Stakes Tuesday at the closing day of the Hialeah meeting in Florida. The Flamingo usually produces a strong contender for the Churchill Downs classic at Louisville in May and this year is no exception.

Silent Screen, the champion 2-year-old of 1969, remains the favorite for the Flamingo although a large field is expected to test the Sonny Werblin-owned colt in his first try at the distance of 1½ miles.

Mike Phipps of Purdue completed five passes last season that gained more than 50 yards.

up April 7 when Chicago will be at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at Los Angeles, Atlanta at San Diego and Houston at San Francisco.

St. Louis will not play until April 8 when it travels to Montreal for the Expos' first contest at home.

On April 10, the Cardinals and Astros begin their home seasons by meeting the Mets and Braves respectively and home opening dates will be completed on April 13 with Pittsburgh at New York, Philadelphia at Chicago and San Francisco at Atlanta.

Three teams are slated to move into new stadiums this year.

Philadelphia is scheduled to get into its new park on May 5 against San Diego. Pittsburgh's first game listed for its new stadium is on May 29 against the Giants and Cincinnati figures to have its stadium ready for Atlanta on June 30.

The Major League All-Star game is to be played at the Reds' new facility on July 11.

Bud Schaibly Leads Bowling Tournament

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Bud Schaibly of North Chicago, Ill., leads in three divisions after the first weekend of action in the Golden Anniversary Elks National Bowling Tournament here.

Schaibly took the lead in scratch singles Saturday with a record 749 mark, shattering the old record of 743 set 43 years ago by H. B. Votel of East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Schaibly took the top spot Sunday in the scratch all events division with 2,073 pins and in the singles handicap division with a 764 total.

OU Edges Falcons, 77-76, To Take MAC Cage Crown

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer
An errant Bowling Green pass and a sophomore's clutch foul shooting has Ohio University wearing the Mid-American Conference basketball crown and preparing for an NCAA Tournament shot.

Tom Corde, only sophomore among Ohio U.s first seven players, calmly swished two free throws with seven seconds to go, which gave the Bobcats the margin they needed in a 77-76 victory Saturday over the Falcons.

Dan McLemore's cross-court pass sailed out of bounds with 30 seconds left, ending the Falcons' stall for a last shot and setting up Corde's heroics before the largest crowd (14,102) ever to see a Mid-American game.

"That's the sweetest shower I ever had," said Bobcat Coach Jim Snyder after Ohio U. earned its fifth league title since 1960. The Bobcats will face Notre Dame in a first round Mid-East Regional Tournament game Saturday in Dayton.

"On our spread (stall) offense," Bowling Green Coach Bob Conibear said, "we just don't throw the ball cross-court. But I can't blame the kid (McLemore) for it."

Ohio U., climaxed its greatest regular season of 20-4, nearly blew a 10-point lead in the first half and a five-point margin with 5½ minutes left.

The Bobcats, led by Craig Love's 18 points and 13 rebounds, ended 9-1 in the league and sagged Bowling Green to 7-3 conference and 14-9 records.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor may prefer the road to Big Ten king Iowa Tuesday night after the Buckeyes absorbed a third straight home loss, 82-80 from Michigan State.

"This is just like winning the NCAA title for us," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas, whose Spartans won on Bob Gale's rebound basket with three seconds left. Gale is averaging two points a game for the season.

The Flyers, who go against Houston in the Midwest Regional tournament at Fort Worth, Tex., led by as much as 16 points in the first half, but the Irish closed to within five in the second stanza.

Los Angeles defeated Boston 120-114 Sunday while Philadelphia turned back Baltimore 104-99. Any combination of 76er victories and Celtics defeats totaling six will eliminate the defending champs from the Eastern Division playoff race.

Elsewhere, Phoenix downed Atlanta 109-98, slicing the Hawks' Western Division lead to one-half game over the Lakers. Milwaukee beat Cincinnati 120-114, San Diego trimmed Chicago 135-122 and Detroit whipped San Francisco 116-99.

Los Angeles' Jerry West and Elgin Baylor combined for 62 points, 39 in the second half, as the Lakers checked repeated Boston rallies.

West finished with 33 points and Baylor with 29. Don Nelson topped the losers with 30 points. Phoenix never led Atlanta until Connie Hawkins' basket in the final minute of the third period gave the Suns a 72-81 edge. The score was deadlocked at 83 before Gail Goodrich put the Suns ahead to stay with 7½ minutes left.

Hawkins paced Phoenix with 30 points and Goodrich added 22. Lou Hudson scored 30 and Joe Caldwell 29 for the Hawks.

The Suns' triumph increased their third-place lead to 1½ games over Chicago.

Baseball Holdouts Still Waiting

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

These are the times that try a holdout's willpower.

He sees television reports of his teammates working out in Florida or Arizona sunshine while outside, winter is taking its last swings and connecting regularly. The general manager says his last offer is final—"take it or leave it." And some rookie is filling in for him and looking pretty good.

But the holdout is adamant. And if you want to know why, just listen to one of this year's most stubborn cases. Houston's Larry Dierker, a 20-game winner last year.

"Every year," says Dierker, "almost every ball player you talk to says he signed for such-and-such a figure, but that he could have signed for more except he didn't want to go through all that rigamarole."

"Two or three thousand dollars may not seem like much over one season, until you start adding things up. Say you play for 10 years. Three-thousand a year over that period amounts to $30,000 and that is something. If you let them do it to you, then you're cutting your own throat."

Dierker is reportedly aiming for a $20,000 raise to about $50,000 but Astro GM Spec Richardson would like to get him for less.

"He won't budge," says Dierker of his negotiations with Richardson, "and I won't either."

Richardson is also locked in salary struggles with outfielders Jim Wynn and Tommy Davis who, like Dierker and several other name stars, became classified as holdouts Sunday—the official reporting date for spring training.

Baltimore also has a trio of dissatisfied front-liners and they are farther apart than the $2-3,000 Dierker talks about. Slugger Boog Powell, bidding for $75,000, and infielder Dave Johnson, who wants $35,000, are both about $10,000 higher than the club cares to go. Dave McNally, a 20-game winner, wants $70,000 but the Orioles are willing to pay only $62,500.

Washington's Frank Howard, who is usually one of the last players to agree to terms, is sitting at home in Green Bay, Wis., waiting for the Senators to agree to pay him $115,000 per year for each of the next two seasons. Another slugger, Oakland's Reggie Jackson, is also waiting for a better offer.

The Atlanta Braves want to trim the $83,000 they paid Orlando Cepeda last year but the big first baseman thinks he ought to get a raise to about $90,000 and these two parties remain at an impasse.

St. Louis is still trying to get Rich Allen's $140,000 demand down to reasonable terms and GM Bing Devine also has a problem in left-hander Steve Carlton, who wants $43,000.

Cincinnati still has headaches with pitcher Jim Maloney and infielders Tommy Helms and Tony Perez. The Reds, who had offered Maloney a conditional contract which depended on the number of innings he pitched, backed down from that position Sunday. But the big pitcher still turned down their latest offer.

Los Angeles satisfied pitcher Bill Singer with a $47,500 contract but still must enroll hurler Don Sutton, catchers Tom Haller and Jeff Torborg and utilityman Len Gabrielson.

San Diego opened the exhibition season Sunday with a 9-1 victory over the Mexico City Tigers. Jerry Morales led the Padres' attack with a single, double and homer.

Boston Bruins Whip New York Rangers

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Bruins pursued New York for 3½ months and now it's the Rangers' turn to do the chasing.

The Bruins finally overtook the Rangers Sunday, moving into first place in the National Hockey League's East Division with a 3-1 decision over St. Louis after Chicago had beaten New York 3-1 in an afternoon game.

Craig Love Named Basketball Captain

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University junior Craig Love of Franklin, Mich., was named captain of the Bobcats' basketball team Sunday night at the annual basketball dinner.

John Canine of Hazel Park, Mich., received the free throw award for his .785 shooting from the line. No most valuable player award will be presented until the Bobcats finish their post-season games in the NCAA Tournament.

Rockets Win Over Caps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry scored a near-record 55 points Sunday, but none of the Washington Caps could find the basket in the final 1½ crucial minutes.

The result was a 137-128 triumph for the Denver Rockets, their seventh consecutive American Basketball Association victory. The Rockets took a two-game Western Division lead over Dallas, which lost to the New York Nets 128-111. The Rockets and Chaps meet Tuesday night in Dallas.

Barry sank 20 of 38 shots as he fell two points short of Connie Hawkins' ABA record. Washington narrowed a 14-point deficit to 133-128 with 1½ minutes left but failed to score another point.

Larry Jones paced Denver with 34 points and Spencer Haywood had 31, along with 16 rebounds.

In other games, Los Angeles upset Indiana 108-105, Pittsburgh beat Kentucky 119-109 and Miami turned back Carolina 109-99.

Anderson Shakes Up Red Batting Order

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds rookie Manager Sparky Anderson hopes to improve the team's production of shuffling the regular batting order at the top of the cards.

Traditional lead-off batter Pete Rose will be moved to third in the lineup and speedy centerfielder Bobby Tolson, who bunted his way on base 16 times in 1969, will bat first.

Second baseman Tommy Helms will hit second.

COMPLETES TRAINING SCHOOL — Tom Wells, a customer serviceman for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., in the Circleville area, has completed a week-long refresher course to bring him "up-to-date" on new developments in natural gas appliances and equipment at the Columbia Gas System Service Corporation Training School at Marble Cliff near Columbus. Above, Wells follows a training manual as he learns to adjust a new gas furnace. The course is just one in a series of special courses designed to keep gas company servicemen abreast of new developments in modern natural gas appliances and equipment. Wells lives at 340 Walnut Creek Pike, and has been with the gas company for 13 years.

HHH Prefers Matthew Welsh For Demo Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, anxious to avoid charges of dictating to the party, says he prefers former Indiana Gov. Matthew E. Welsh as the new Democratic national chairman but wants the selection to be a wide open issue.

While a party spokesman insisted there would be no rubber stamping of the former vice president's choice, the odds were the party's executive committee would go along at its meeting today and endorse Welsh.

The official selection will come Thursday when the full Democratic National Committee meets to formally choose a successor to Oklahoma Sen. Fred R. Harris, who is resigning.

But Humphrey quickly went on to list other prospects for the chairmanship, and say all of them should get full consideration.

Among the other names: Mayor Joseph Doorley of Providence, R.I.; Joseph Crangle, Democratic chairman of Erie County, N.Y.; Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee; former Gov. Hulett Smith of West Virginia; Gordon St. Angelo, the Democratic chairman of Indiana.

In Indianapolis, Welsh said he had told Humphrey "he could submit my name and if the National Committee wanted me to serve, then certainly I would give it serious consideration."

Welsh served as a U.S. attorney, a state legislator, then as governor of Indiana from 1961 until 1965. His major moment of national political attention came in 1964 when, as a stand-in for then President Lyndon B. Johnson, he contested George C. Wallace in the Indiana presidential primary. The Wallace share of the Indiana vote was held to 29 per cent.

it could fit in the palm of a man's hand. The Vietnamese exhibition staff had it open to the first page of the Scriptures of St. Matthew. Near the jacket hung a picture of the man said to be Kabler. Apparently his first name was Jim. Under the picture was a small card lettered by the Vietnamese in an attempt at a phonetic version of the name: "Giem Cat Lo."

At the entrance to the exhibition grounds three jet interceptors with gold stars are on display. On the opposite side of the entrance gate is a junk heap. It consists of about 20 jet engines and twisted sections of crashed U.S. planes.

Lists available in the United States of U.S. prisoners held in North Vietnam do not include a man named Kabler. However, Maj. James H. Kasper of Indianapolis, Ind., does appear on the list. A Hanoi broadcast some time ago said he was shot down and captured on June 29, 1966, after leading a raid on a Hanoi fuel dump.

The narrator's reference to an airman named "Alvarez" apparently was Lt. (j.g.) Everett H. Alvarez Jr. of San Jose, Calif. A Hanoi broadcast on June 28, 1968, called him Alfred Alvarez and said he was captured Aug. 5, 1964. He was among a group of airmen paraded in the streets of Hanoi.

AP records in New York list Lt. Cmdr. McCain as having been shot down in October 1967. None of the lists available in New York showed a Norman Gardis, whom the North Vietnamese identified as a member of the faculty of the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. The name does not appear on a U.S. Defense Department list of men missing in Vietnam.

Lawrence said he and Dr. Wilford F. Libby, institute director, arranged for the exhibit at Bullock's Wilshire department store, where the dinner-dance was held to raise money for two eye foundations for research curtailed by federal spending cuts.

Informed of NASA's statement that the display had not been authorized, Lawrence said, "According to their interpretation that is correct." He did not elaborate.

NASA officials said the dust could have little monetary value to a thief because there is no legal market for it.

"It's something you can't put a dollar value on," said Weatherill.

Pompidou And Jewish Leaders To Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — French President Georges Pompidou meets today with leaders of Jewish organizations to discuss the pro-Israel demonstrations that have marred his visit to the United States.

More mass protests were expected today but spokesmen for the Jewish groups said Sunday night they "deplore any use of disorder or physical force to express our anguish over French Middle Eastern policy."

Pompidou's schedule also calls for a visit to the United Nations, where he will confer with Secretary-General U Thant on the Middle East situation. His schedule winds up with a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, where a major protest is planned.

Pompidou decided Sunday to go ahead with his scheduled two-day visit to New York despite misgivings and displeasure over hostile demonstrations in Chicago.

The decision came after Mayor John V. Lindsay appealed to New Yorkers to "avoid any discourtesy or other behavior that would mar this city's devotion to the lawful, peaceful resolution of all difficulties."

The demonstrations are to protest the French sale of 110 Mirage jet fighters to the Arab state of Libya while continuing to impose an embargo on the sale of military hardware to Israel.

Lindsay, who announced previously there would be no formal reception for Pompidou, will be in Washington during the president's two-day visit. He said his appeal did not question the right of peaceful expression of feelings.

Pompidou arrived at Westchester County Airport Sunday where he was greeted by about 1,000 demonstrators. He spent the night at the home of U.S. Protocol Chief Emil Mosbacher, a millionaire yachtsman, in White Plains.

In addition to the airport protest, demonstrations began Sunday in New York against Pompidou's visit. A rally at Hunter College drew 1,500 persons Sunday night.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., told the gathering that France was playing a "reckless and dangerous game of trading arms for oil in an attempt to regain its influence in the Middle East."

Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, a Democrat, said France "cannot deliver Mirages to Israel, but it had no difficulty in delivering Mirages to Libya that both you and I know are intended for Egyptian hands."

Pompidou has said that if the jets get to Egypt, France will revise its position toward non-combatant Libya.

There were rumors Sunday that Pompidou would cut short his tour in anger over the demonstrations but a spokesman said there had been no change in the itinerary.

Both French and American officials traveling with the president said he was distressed that 10,000 demonstrators were permitted by Chicago police to block his entrance from the hotel and force him to push his way through hostile crowds.

Kunstler Calls For Demonstrations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William Kunstler, defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial, has called on young people to demonstrate peacefully "at every courthouse in the nation to fight political oppression."

Kunstler said Sunday that demonstrators were responsible for the release on bail Saturday of the seven defendants convicted on riot and contempt charges.

"It was a people's victory," the 50-year-old attorney said. "The seven would still be in Cook County Jail if people hadn't gone into the streets for them. The people united behind the bail question and intimidated the court."

The U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals overturned a ruling by the trial judge, Julius J. Hoffman, who denied bail on the grounds the defendants were "dangerous men" and their appeals were "frivolous."

Kunstler—accompanied by Tom Hayden, 29, one of the defendants, and Leonard Wein-glass, 36, his fellow defense attorney—spoke to an umbrella-toting crowd in cold, drizzly weather from a platform in back of a Unitarian church in Sepulveda. Police estimated the crowd at about 3,000.

There were no incidents during the rally, sponsored by The Conspiracy, a California organization raising money for the appeals of the five defendants convicted during the trial on charges of crossing state lines to incite rioting during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

The appeals will cost $250,000 to $500,000, Kunstler said. Hayden, free on $25,000 bail on his five-year sentence, said he and his fellow defendants were "stand-ins for the new generation."

"We stood for an incendiary idea, the most incendiary idea in all history—all power to the people," he said. "This is the motto of the new generation."

He described Judge Hoffman, President Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan as "dinosaurs, on the verge of extinction."

Reagan has directed the state attorney general to investigate whether Kunstler crossed state

Toastmasters Hold Annual Speech Event

The Circleville Toastmasters Club held its annual serious speech contest Thursday at the L-K Restaurant.

Bill McKinney won the contest with a speech entitled, "What's Patriotism." Dick Theis' speech was selected as runner-up.

McKinney is considered one of the outstanding speakers of the club and is expected to go a long way in the international competition. The next level of competition is the area contest to be hosted by the Circleville Club Saturday at Pickaway Arms.

Dick Petz led the table topics discussion and Gene Broome emerged as winner. The next regular meeting will be March 12 at the L-K Restaurant. Guests may attend the meeting by calling 474-2633.

lines to incite to riot when violent demonstrations broke out in the University of California at Santa Barbara community of Isla Vista after a speech the lawyer made last week.

"The problems that gave rise to the violence at Santa Barbara were long standing," Kunstler said at a news conference. "Gov. Reagan has seized upon my speech as a way out of these problems. What he is doing is trying to use me as a campaign issue in his bid for re-election. It's an old play."

He added: "Incidents such as Santa Barbara only hurt us. I don't think we should give the establishment the opportunity to destroy our youth."

In Chicago, Stuart Ball Jr., a legal consultant to the seven defendants, said they planned extensive speech-making to raise funds for their court appeals.

The appeals court, granting bail, warned the men against "seditious speech" but Ball said he did not believe the government would want to lock the men up again in view of public demonstrations on their behalf.

The Chicago Police Department assigned 20 detectives to guard the apartment of Judge Hoffman, who made no public comment on the release of the men.

Dissidents Ready To Start More Trouble In California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Some dissident youths have vowed to resume a destructive rampage in the college community of Isla Vista when remaining National Guardsmen are withdrawn.

"We have nothing against the Guard," said one girl. "But when they leave get ready, 'cause we're going to give the pigs hell!" "Pigs" was a reference to peace officers.

More than half of the guardsmen were pulled out Sunday—leaving an estimated 200 to 300 to back up an equal number of sheriff's deputies, police and highway patrolmen.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr., the Guard commander, said all troops might leave Tuesday if all remains calm.

In three nights of violence last week, before the guardsmen arrived, youths fought police with rocks and bottles and burned a Bank of America branch office to the ground. They also smashed store windows and set fire to a patrol car.

Officers have arrested 141 persons since the trouble started last Tuesday.

Light rain put a damper on demonstrations Sunday for a second day, but some youths said the main reason for the continued calm was the presence since Friday of guardsmen, many patrolling with bayonets fixed on rifles.

One Isla Vista youth who felt the violence would not resume after the guardsmen left said: "People have made their point that they're fed up. Hopefully, someone will listen."

The youths said they were protesting what they believe is harassment by local police, high rents in the community of 13,000 adjacent to the university campus, and the "capitalist establishment" in general.

Amanda FHA Holds Supper

A program on crime and a family potluck supper highlighted the February meeting of the Amanda-Clearcreek Future Homemakers of America.

Debbie Rowley presided over the business meeting following the introduction of the girls' parents and families.

The girls voted to serve at the County Elementary Teachers Supper on March 5 and at the NFO dinner in April. Girls interested in competing for a national FHA office were informed that the office of vice president was open for election this year.

Members trying for their degrees were reminded to turn information in to Christine Covell or Pauline Moyer by April 3. Girls receiving their degrees will be announced at the annual Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America banquet April 10.

Diane Kinser introduced Mrs. Chole Hollinger who gave a speech on the "Roots of Crime." For other entertainment, parents made a collage of their daughters and the girls made one of themselves which were compared at the end of the evening.

FHA will meet March 19 with Mary Moore, Joyce Drake, Judy Bussert and Patty Thornton heading the program committee. Becky Miller and Mary Morehead will provide refreshments and Robin Davis, Charlene Frazier and Cindy Harmon, refreshments.

'Heroin' Pusher Peddles Parsley

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two detectives spotted a young man talking and gesturing to a soldier along a downtown street and decided something was wrong.

The detectives questioned the salesman and learned he was trying to sell the soldier an envelope supposedly containing marijuana.

It turned out to be dried parsley, and the salesman was asking $3 for it. At the station house, police said the salesman told them he sometimes deals in baking powder. He calls it heroin.

The police called his actions loitering and jailed him.

Job Market Tightens Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A "job market depression" faces 1970 college graduates, even those with advance degrees, says Ralph Keller, Stanford University director of placement.

The situation is "acute" in the San Francisco Bay Area, but also exists elsewhere in the nation, he said Sunday.

"Industries are releasing people," he added. "Even our graduates are asking help in finding jobs."

Vigorous on-campus recruiting of recent years is tapering off noticeably, Keller said. "Just last month, the number of companies cancelling job interviews at Stanford increased from 58 to 66."

Cuts mostly were among aerospace, aircraft and automotive companies, he reported. "We are going to have to work much harder to help our people find jobs."

Find Bomb On Airliner

ROME (AP) — Police today said they had only "barest indications" to guide their hunt for the unknown person who planted a bomb in the washroom of a Ethiopian jetliner carrying 40 persons.

Suspicion fell on the Front for Eritrean Liberation, which has struck before at Ethiopian airliners. But one police official said, "So far we have no real clues, only the barest indications."

The bomb was found in a small bag in the tourist class lavatory as the plane was taxiing on the runway before taking off for Africa. An Ethiopian security agent who found the bomb ran 300 feet with it and hurled it into a field. The suitcase exploded as it landed, but the agent had dropped to the ground and was not injured.

The plane was released after police searched the luggage, and it continued its flight to Athens, Beirut, Asmara and Addis Ababa. But 12 of the 27 passengers got off to take another flight.

ADDICT AT 12—Eight days after his last heroin shot, Ralphie de Jesus, 12, tells a shocked legislative committee in New York about his experiences in use of drugs and his criminal activities to maintain a supply. "Nobody taught me," he said, "nobody forced me, but I didn't want to be left out when I saw my friends use drugs. I started by sniffing glue and cleaning fluids, then I smoked pot, snorted heroin . . ." He is under treatment.

Flu Outbreak On Wane?

ATLANTA (AP) — Although a few sections of the United States are still experiencing significant influenza activity, this winter's flu seems to have peaked in many parts of the nation, the National Communicable Disease Center reports.

In its weekly report Saturday, the NCDC said Mississippi reported more cases of influenza-like illness during the week ending Feb. 21 than at any other time since 1958.

The flu was still considerably active in Maine, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Deaths attributed to influenza and its frequent companion, pneumonia, were reported at higher levels than expected in the 122 cities across the country sampled weekly by the center.

The report said 817 persons died as a result of pneumonia and influenza in the week ending Feb. 21, while 532 had been expected. The Middle Atlantic region, with 294 such deaths, and the East North Central region, with 141, were highest.

Kunstler Calls For Demonstrations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William Kunstler, defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial, has called on young people to demonstrate peacefully "at every courthouse in the nation to fight political oppression."

Kunstler said Sunday that demonstrators were responsible for the release on bail Saturday of the seven defendants convicted on riot and contempt charges.

"It was a people's victory," the 50-year-old attorney said. "The seven would still be in Cook County Jail if people hadn't gone into the streets for them. The people united behind the bail question and intimidated the court."

The U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals overturned a ruling by the trial judge, Julius J. Hoffman, who denied bail on the grounds the defendants were "dangerous men" and their appeals were "frivolous."

Kunstler—accompanied by Tom Hayden, 29, one of the defendants, and Leonard Weinglass, 36, his fellow defense attorney—spoke to an umbrella-toting crowd in cold, drizzly weather from a platform in back of a Unitarian church in Sepulveda. Police estimated the crowd at about 3,000.

There were no incidents during the rally, sponsored by The Conspiracy, a California organization raising money for the appeals of the five defendants convicted during the trial on charges of crossing state lines to incite rioting during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

The appeals will cost $250,000 to $500,000, Kunstler said.

Hayden, free on $25,000 bail on his five-year sentence, said he and his fellow defendants were "stand-ins for the new generation."

"We stood for an incendiary idea, the most incendiary idea in all history—all power to the people," he said. "This is the motto of the new generation."

He described Judge Hoffman, President Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan as "dinosaurs, on the verge of extinction."

Reagan has directed the state attorney general to investigate whether Kunstler crossed state lines to incite to riot when violent demonstrations broke out in the University of California at Santa Barbara community of Isla Vista after a speech the lawyer made last week.

"The problems that gave rise to the violence at Santa Barbara were long standing," Kunstler said at a news conference. "Gov. Reagan has seized upon my speech as a way out of these problems. What he is doing is trying to use me as a campaign issue in his bid for re-election. It's an old ploy."

He added: "Incidents such as Santa Barbara only hurt us. I don't think we should give the establishment the opportunity to destroy our youth."

In Chicago, Stuart Ball Jr., a legal consultant to the seven defendants, said they planned extensive speech-making to raise funds for their court appeals.

The appeals court, granting bail, warned the men against "seditious speech" but Ball said he did not believe the government would want to lock the men up again in view of public demonstrations on their behalf.

The Chicago Police Department assigned 20 detectives to guard the apartment of Judge Hoffman, who made no public comment on the release of the men.

Toastmasters Hold Annual Speech Event

The Circleville Toastmasters Club held its annual serious speech contest Thursday at the L-K Restaurant.

Bill McKinney won the contest with a speech entitled, "What's Patriotism?" Dick Theis' speech was selected as runnerup.

McKinney is considered one of the outstanding speakers of the club and is expected to go a long way in the international competition. The next level of competition is the area contest to be hosted by the Circleville Club Saturday at Pickaway Arms.

Dick Petz led the table topics discussion and Gene Broome emerged as winner. The next regular meeting will be March 12 at the L-K Restaurant. Guests may attend the meeting by calling 474-2633.

Flu Outbreak On Wane?

ATLANTA (AP) — Although a few sections of the United States are still experiencing significant influenza activity, this winter's flu seems to have peaked in many parts of the nation, the National Communicable Disease Center reports.

In its weekly report Saturday, the NCDC said Mississippi reported more cases of influenza-like illness during the week ending Feb. 21 than at any other time since 1958.

The flu was still considerably active in Maine, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Deaths attributed to influenza and its frequent companion, pneumonia, were reported at higher levels than expected in the 122 cities across the country sampled weekly by the center.

The report said 817 persons died as a result of pneumonia and influenza in the week ending Feb. 21, while 532 had been expected. The Middle Atlantic region, with 204 such deaths, and the East North Central region, with 141, were highest.

same as other samples analyzed elsewhere. Lawrence said he and Dr. Willard F. Libby, institute director, arranged for the exhibit at Bullock's Wilshire department store, where the dinner-dance was held to raise money for two eye foundations for research curtailed by federal spending cuts.

Informed of NASA's statement that the display had not been authorized, Lawrence said, "According to their interpretation that is correct." He did not elaborate.

NASA officials said the dust could have little monetary value to a thief because there is no legal market for it.

"It's something you can't put a dollar value on," said Weatherill.

Tachometer Stolen
Kenny Arnold, Kingston, told Circleville Police a tachometer was taken from his car while it was parked on Town St. between 11:30 p.m. and midnight Saturday. The tachometer was valued at $20.
